Glorious, GIRLS-ONLY shopping

Something For Me Markets are here, and they're just for you.

Kristy Saurin loves her husband and is a thoughtful mum, but on Friday October 7, she will be donning the hat of community organiser, local business supporter and curator of nice things at her self-organised, women-only event, Something for Me Markets.

The markets will be hosted at Pilpel by the Sea, where women can coordinate and socialise over cocktails and tapas about the finer points of potential buys.

For this shopping outing, leave the boys at home and ponder the subtle etchings of a marvellous bangle with a turquoise-stone bouquet that reflects the light in just such a way.

Cultivating the creative and social buying process, "Our vendors' products and services are unique and appealing to the female audience," and the event will "support women in local businesses in the Moreton Bay community," says Kristy.

The idea behind the market, designed exclusively for women of all ages and sponsored by Just Girls Getaway, expands on one of retail's perhaps under-appreciated dynamics which primarily markets the shopping experience to women.

"The majority of women love to shop and love to shop uninterrupted." But the catch, Kristy says, is that "it doesn't happen very often."

The goal is to enjoy the exploration of unique, local and ideal finds in beauty, fashion, jewellery and homewares of exceptional fit, style and utility — away from "the hassles of everyday life," Kristy says.

> "I wanted to create a Market that offered just that... some uninterrupted 'Me' time. Where women could leisurely browse Market stalls without a toddler in [tow] or a husband or partner hurrying them along."

Plus, two lucky ticket-holders will win a Girls' weekend away with a friend. Enjoy bed and breakfast accommodation, tapas dinner, professional photo shoot and winery tour valued at over $850.

Café Taps Into Bavarian Brews

One whole year into their operations on the Redcliffe Peninsula, Brew N Grind Café & Bar has been a welcome addition to our local dining and entertainment scene.

This month, owner Michelle Garvey is bringing us a version of Germany's largest beer festival, condensed into one day on Saturday 15 October.

Brew N Grind's Oktoberfest will offer German beer on tap, along with the café's own selection from the Banyo-based boutique brewery, All Inn Brewery Co.

Lara from Brew N Grind says there will be traditional German food on the menu, including Bratwurst sausages, sauerkraut, mini pretzels, and Apple Strudel for dessert.

> "We'll have giant games for a bit of fun, and some live music on the day."

The official Oktoberfest is a two-week festival held each year in Munich, Germany from late September until early October. It is attended by about six million people each year.

The history of Oktoberfest originates from the festivities that were held on 12 October 1810 to celebrate the marriage of Kronprinz (Crown Prince) Ludwig (1786-1868) and Princess Therese of Saxe-Hildburghausen.

There was wine and beer, dancing and horseracing. Pairs of children were paraded through the crowds, dressed in costumes from the then nine Bavarian townships and other regions.

The horseraces ended in 1960, but by then, Oktoberfest had become a world-famous festival, spread across the world by German expats and beer-loving university students.

The Oktoberfest in Munich is still celebrated on the Theresienwiese (Meadow of Therese), or the Wiesn for short, which is where the first ever festivities were held.

Come down with your family and enjoy lots of fun, games and German culture during Brew N Grind's Oktoberfest celebrations on Saturday, October 8.

Trick or Tease

What could be more thrilling than combining the sensuousness of Burlesque and the spookiness of Halloween?

Kristine Lane

On Friday October 28, Mon Komo Hotel will once again bring the immensely popular Trick or Tease Bombshell Burlesque show to Redcliffe.

For the third year in a row, this sell-out performance will display the 'art of tease and glamour' in a highly exciting show of corsets, high heels, feathers and gloves – Halloween style.

Eight award-winning performers will headline this show, including a celebrated chanteuse MC, strutting their bodies and boas on stage serving up a smorgasbord of risqué fun.

With a professional ensemble of Lila Luxx, Jacqueline Furey, Cello Bordello, Evie Libertine, The Bombshells trio of Lucy Luxe, Kira Titan, and Diamond Dubbellyou, and MC Ella Fontaine, this classy cabaret show will be sure to bring a trick or treat to those who appreciate the form and beauty of women, musical expression, and the mysteriousness of a night celebrated all around the world.

Brisbane, a city now beating to the pulse of a burgeoning burlesque community, has produced some of these fine enchanting dancers who will be performing at this Redcliffe revue. Holding artistic titles such as Miss Burlesque QLD 2016, Queen of Seduction 2015, and People's Choice Qld 2014, fans will be sure to delight in the shimmying and sparkles of these seductive showgals.

While the term 'Burlesque' has changed since its late 17th Century origins of bright and high-spirited musical parodies, today's exposition of sensuality and intimacy is a testament to the rising popularity of the risqué expression of self – something that the residents of Redcliffe will be sure to treasure.

The show, held on level one of the Caribbean Rooms at the Mon Komo Hotel, also includes a two-course dinner, plus drinks. It's an 18+ event, and with guests encouraged to don their best Halloween costume to be part of the spirited atmosphere (and to be a contender for the best-dressed prize), what better way to savour a night of spectacle and seduction?

■ For those interested in the Trick or Tease Bombshell Burlesque show, tickets must be pre-purchased. Go online to monkomohotel.com.au or call Mon Komo on ph 3284 4650.

ABBALIVE

Does Your Mother Know about ABBALIVE?

Move over North Lakes IKEA, a new Swedish icon is coming to town.

Knowing Me, Knowing You, if there's one place we'll be on Friday 28 October, it's the Redcliffe Cultural Centre for ABBALIVE – Australia's Number 1 ABBA tribute production.

Perhaps they did it for the Money, Money, Money, or maybe they just got together because they had a dream. Regardless, never in the history of popular music, has a group or artist been relived in such an astounding way from one generation to the next, aided by releases like ABBA The Movie, Muriel's Wedding, Priscilla Queen Of The Desert, the Mamma Mia musical and movie, ABBA Singstar, and the ABBA museum.

2014 saw the celebration of the 40th anniversary of ABBA's winning of the Eurovision song contest, with their unforgettable hit, Waterloo. This was a huge worldwide event that once again set the media abuzz with ABBA specials, news coverage and the hint of a possible ABBA reunion.

ABBALIVE celebrated the occasion by creating a brand new show; complete with over 35 of ABBA's most renowned hits, new costumes and the perfect recreation of ABBA as they were live on stage.

The new and improved "ABBA Live On Stage" experience continues to ensure the Super Trouper music and magical vocals of ABBA are presented as never before.

The performance features an international lineup of some of the world's finest musicians and entertainers, and full choreography to rival any Dancing Queen.

Australian Network Entertainment has praised ABBALIVE for "refusing to be just another ABBA tribute show".

"ABBALIVE meticulously dissected the songs of ABBA and carefully placed every note and magical harmony back together to create a brilliant replica of these wonderful songs," Australian Network said.

"The team are constantly reassessing the songs and footage of the real group to ensure they stay as true to ABBA as possible.

"ABBA were a 'clean cut' group with a respected image. ABBALIVE have the utmost respect for the image and status they portray and therefore replicate — in every possible way — the music, costumes, choreography, mannerisms, and even personalities of the REAL ABBA."

The historic Shorncliffe Pier will be the stage for the district's next gala event, a five-star long table dinner showcasing the best of the area.

The Long Table
Shorncliffe Pier

Hosted by Sandgate & Districts Chamber of Commerce, the inaugural 'The Long Table Shorncliffe Pier' will be held on Saturday, October 15.

Chamber of Commerce President, Bill Gollan says the gala dinner idea arose because the group was looking to host more events and show off the Sandgate area.

"What better way to celebrate our new pier than to host a great dinner on it and celebrate the area," Bill says.

> "This dinner is going to be five-star. We are going to do something the rest of Brisbane is going to stand up and say 'Wow, Sandgate is great'."

Bill says the nautical-themed dinner will be a great way for the community to connect.

"We are on the water; it is the night before full moon and you couldn't get a more picturesque place in Brisbane," he says.

The night will begin at 5pm with pre-dinner drinks and canapes at the base of the pier, with local musicians providing the entertainment.

Dinner will then be served on one long table on the pier from 6pm accompanied by a string quartet. The evening will also feature a performance by Tony Dee.

Bill says the chamber is hoping the dinner will become an annual must-do event.

"We are encouraging as many locals to come along and get in early and get your tickets."

A silent auction to be held on the night will raise funds to support local 'Fun For All' campaign to install an all-inclusive playground in Sandgate.

Diners are also invited to kick on afterwards at the Full Moon Hotel.

"Come along, and let's share our wonderful area with the rest of Brisbane."

TICKETS for the 18+ event are $140, which includes a three-course meal, beverages and entertainment.

Tickets are limited so purchase early to avoid disappointment. For tickets, visit sandgatechamber.com.au/thelongtablegalaevent.

Ride of the Century

All the bells and whistles: Once-in-a-generation Redcliffe Peninsula Line officially opens.

Over 100 years in the making, the fast-tracked Redcliffe railway arrives fashionably late to its open day celebration.

Crystal Gentry

In no short historical feat, by measure of time or track, the aptly named Redcliffe Peninsula Line will be running alongside a new local bus network and will be fully operational beginning Tuesday, 4 October, ready to transport passengers every six to 12 minutes during peak times.

The $988 million, 12.6 km dual track line and six new stations are ultimately the results of tri-level government funding, cooperation between three public transportation agencies, recurring themes in state elections, and also the relocation efforts of more than 350 displaced koalas.

"For more than a decade, I have lobbied for this project to fulfill the promise made back in 1895 by the then Queensland Parliament to construct a crucial rail line," State Member for Redcliffe Yvette D'Ath said.

> "Redcliffe was Queensland's first settlement city and it [is] fitting more than 192 years later, we now have built a rail line that connects the peninsula to Brisbane and honours our history," Honourable Stirling Hinchliffe said.

Following an indefinite timeline derailment and independent audit sought by Mr Hinchcliffe over safety standards regarding the line's traffic signalling system, the Redcliffe Peninsula Line is ready to pull out all the stops on open day.

To be held on the Queen's public holiday, the open day celebration will feature "activities and events at each station, plus free train rides along the new line from 10am-3pm," according to TransLink.

Locals selected by ballot for the inaugural ride will be the first "on board as our special VIPs for the day," says Mrs D'Ath, and because of intense public interest, online registration is vital for both shuttle service and all open day rides.

These pioneering passengers will be the first among many to enjoy new and improved transportation access and opportunity, and who will together transform the Moreton Bay region.

"More than 34 percent of our region's residents will, for the first time ever, be connected to a fast, reliable rail line linking our local suburbs via new stations at Kippa-Ring, Rothwell, Mango Hill, Mango Hill East, Murrumba Downs and Kallangur," according to Moreton Bay Regional Council Mayor Allan Sutherland.

"I'm looking forward to the official opening and I know everyone will get on-board with the region's new train line," Sutherland said.

100+ YEARS

If the line had been realized during the era of its conception, the first trains on the track would have been steam-powered.

MASTER PLAN Focus On Region's Outdoor Economy

Moreton Bay Regional Council is asking local residents and business owners to help shape the growth of the region's outdoor economy.

Council has invited Planning and Design consultants to prepare a Master Plan for the Redcliffe foreshore that aims to grow and develop the economic potential of the iconic seaside area. The successful tenderer will be appointed by mid-October and will be required to conduct community consultation to inform the draft plan it presents to council.

Mayor Allan Sutherland said a growing number of commercial operators had expressed interest in establishing businesses along the foreshore, and the Master Plan would help shape how the area would be used in the future, while establishing a fair and transparent approval framework.

"More and more operators are telling us they want to set up shop along the foreshore, with every business model you can imagine, from mobile coffee carts, inflatable aquatic fun parks, kayak hire tents, outdoor massage tables, aqua bike rentals, and ice-cream vendors to fast food trucks. Itinerant and outdoor vending is a growth industry," Mayor Sutherland said.

"We need a Master Plan that strikes the right balance between the interests of existing businesses along the foreshore, with their bricks and mortar overheads, and promoting new business ventures and better utilisation of our incredible foreshore areas.

"Some areas along the foreshore will be more suitable for commercial use than others, and some sorts of commercial activity may not be suitable at all, and these are all things that will need to be determined."

Division Six Councillor, Koliana Winchester said the Master Plan project would build on work already done by council including a $24 million redevelopment, Stage 1 and 2 of Bee Gees Way and road upgrades to enhance the Redcliffe foreshore area.

"Council has already done a lot of work planning for the future of the foreshore with respect to infrastructure and aesthetics, with capital works already underway, so this Master Plan work will focus on identifying potential locations, opportunities, constraints and mechanisms for the use of the foreshore areas in the best interest of the community."

> "For this reason, council wants to appoint a design and planning expert that will consult extensively with local residents, businesses and chambers of commerce to create a Master Plan that works for everyone in the region.

"This is about making it easier for operators to apply for opportunities along the Redcliffe foreshore and eventually other outdoor areas across the region, and easier for council to make decisions on what's best for the community, because we'll have a clear framework to guide our deliberations."

The initial Redcliffe Foreshore Master Plan and Activation Strategy will focus on a large area that includes foreshore areas in Scarborough, Redcliffe, Margate, Woody Point and Clontarf.

SCARBOROUGH'S 3EIGHTNINE - Ben McShea

TOP VIEWS FOR YOUR Morning BREW

With over 12 months of happy customers and a recent expansion and renovation, Scarborough's 3Eightnine is a favourite with locals and visitors to the peninsula.

Owners Renate and Mark Salisbury took over the café in April 2015, keen to be in charge of their own business following a long career in hospitality and customer service.

Renate says her foray into the food industry started with work as a kitchen hand, waiter and bar attendant, eventually working as a silver service waiter in a five-star hotel in Melbourne.

"My benchmark for service standards has been set high, and I always try to bring quality and good service to our customers," she says.

"Later, working for Qantas Domestic and Regional in commercial roles left me with a passion for great customer service and some wonderful insights into the commercial realities of being involved in running a business.

"It has also left me with a severe case of travel lust."

Renate says a great location and an already thriving business, combined with her background in hospitality, made the café a good fit for what they were looking for.

"Since we opened, the space next door to us became available, and we took the plunge to extend and revamp the café," she says.

"The renovation has provided a much nicer, more open space with great access to the water views that are at our doorstep.

"Our fit-out was designed with comfort and appeal in mind, and I personally road tested all the chairs before buying any."

Renate says they pride themselves on offering great coffee, great food, great ambience and great service.

"Food is a passion with us, so we aim to make people happy with what we cook, and we have fabulous staff to serve you," she says.

"As much of our produce as possible is sourced locally, our milk is bought from the Australian owned milk co-operative Norco, and we made the swap from cage eggs to free range as soon as we took over the business.

"Running an ethical business that supports other local businesses is important to us, and we try to fold that into our daily practice."

Renate says if patrons are after more than just the mushroom haloumi breakfast or addictive chocolate brownies, they can attend some of the exciting new Café 3Eightnine events.

"We have started running Murder Mystery theatre dinner nights, which have been a great success, and are also about to launch our first trivia night that will act as a fundraising event for the Inside Outside Dance Ensemble," Renate says.

trivia night!

Play-Based Learning at C&K Anne Shearer Kindergarten & Preschool

Melissa Bailey

The C&K Anne Shearer Kindergarten and Preschool will host a Trivia Night to raise funds for the community kindy! Have fun and win prizes while helping the school to a fresh coat of paint and hopefully — iPads.

Anne Shearer founded the kindergarten movement on the Redcliffe Peninsula and established the Anne Shearer Kindergarten in 1957. Offering natural, play-based learning, the C&K Kindergarten and Preschool believes that the first five years of a child's life are most important in shaping the type of adults they will become.

As a community kindergarten, C&K rely on fundraisers run each term to contribute to building upgrades and technological resources for the children. This term, parents are running a trivia night to raise funds to paint the external building after a recent internal paint upgrade at the Sydney Street kindy. Further, parents are hoping to raise enough funds to pay for iPads for the children to learn to take short videos and photos of each other throughout their day in their natural, play-based learning environment.

"This is a community run Kindergarten and as such we love to run community building events such as our trivia night!" says Claire Klich, fundraising committee member and mother of four.

"We have some fantastic prizes including Bunnings vouchers, vouchers to the hair dresser and cinema, Tupperware, and lots more. We're really looking forward to seeing the Redcliffe community take part," says Klich.

Everyone is bound to have a great time with tickets that include trivia, dinner, soft drinks and five raffle tickets with more available for purchase on the night. The first prize winner will

The Trivia Night will be held at Scarborough State School on Saturday 15 October from 6pm. Tickets are available online through Eventbrite.com for $120 for a team of six or $25 each.

And if you're worried what to do with the kids for the night, don't. There will be a crèche available with trained workers providing care for $5 per child or $10 for two or more children in the same family.

Belvedere Hotel Relaunch

Emma Harley

Woody Point's iconic Belvedere Hotel will cast a new, modern shadow over Bramble Bay this month, with the completion of a multimillion dollar renovation.

Marketing, entertainment and special events manager Lisa Casablanca says following previous refurbishments back in 2006, the decision was made to renovate the Hotel with a fresh, modern feel.

"The old Steak & Crabhouse Restaurant is totally being renovated with a fresh new atrium look, using the fresh colours of white, green and black with the lushness of greenery, she says.

"It will not look like it used to with the bar moving down the very front of the Restaurant near the entry, and windows knocked out in our old Sunset Lounge to make way for bi-fold doors, so this room will easily flow into the layout of the new Restaurant."

Lisa says the newly renovated restaurant will offer a lot more casual, scenic dining for patrons.

"You can kick back for the afternoon and listen to live entertainment, enjoy a beverage or two and indulge in some share plates while watching the sun set over Bramble Bay," she says.

"We will also have on offer a brand new boardroom that will seat 20 guests, which can be booked out for private dinners, seminars and workshops.

"A brand new courtesy bus will do pickups and drop offs all around the Peninsula."

In its 115th year, the historic hotel is one of the oldest hotels in the Moreton Bay Region and a much loved venue.

With such a proud history, the hotel is a local favourite and the owners have ensured it has retained much of its original charm.

Lisa says the feedback from the community has been very positive.

"A lot of people are excited for the change, however, we have made sure we don't lose the original look of the hotel in the original building as some patrons were concerned we would," she says.

"Our old Jetty Bar will have a nostalgic feel about it, furnished with many old photos and decor of history gone by.

"We believe it is important for the community to support such an iconic establishment that has been around for so many years and in return, we give back by supporting many groups."

PROUDLY EMPOWERING BUSINESS - CELEBRATING COMMUNITY

Luke Meets Green Army

Luke Howarth MP

We live in a beautiful part of the world and with the arrival of spring means warmer weather.

I am pleased to have been able to secure $100,000 for local community groups to install rooftop and hot water solar systems. Reducing overhead costs for local community groups' means money can be spent in our community allowing the groups to focus on what really matters.

One of the many groups that is benefiting from solar installations is The Endeavour Foundation in Kippa-Ring. The Endeavour Foundation provides intensive specialised education, training, and supported employment to 61 individuals with disabilities.

Other community groups that have shared in this $100,000 include the Redcliffe Senior Citizens, Lions Recycle for Sight Australia, Encircle, Ridge Hills Football Club, Deception Bay Soccer Club, Bracken Ridge and Bald Hills Scouts and Aspley Memorial Bowls Club.

Local households will not miss out either as the Coalition is committed to tackling climate change without a jobs-destroying carbon tax. The Australian Government's Renewable Energy Target provides for an average rebate for a solar system of $3000, or about 30 per cent of the installation cost.

I am always eager to meet new people and hear your views on how we can improve our local area and Australia as a nation.

Getting Out with Man's Best Friend

Melissa Bailey

Redcliffe Peninsula dog owners have excellent, spacious areas for their pups to run free and enjoy the grass, light bush, sea and beach.

Apart from the multitude of footpaths around the coast of the Peninsula, everyone living in or visiting Redcliffe has a number of beaches and parks to take their four-legged friends for a walk or play.

The Kroll Gardens on the corner of Duffield Road and Snook Street in Clontarf has a fully fenced, off-leash dog park with refillable water bowls for your pet, dog agility equipment for training, bins, a waste bag dispenser, seating and toilets (for you, not your dog). The park features lots of trees for your pup to enjoy and a clearing to play ball and toss a stick.

Local resident Katrina Ranken regularly visits the dog parks and beach with her Weimaraner, Wynn.

"The best time to the visit the dog park is in the afternoon when there are a few other people with their dogs out on the weekend," says Ranken, "I take my dog Wynn down to have a play with other dogs and let her run around free off her leash."

If you're in the suburbs of Redcliffe North or Scarborough, there is a tucked-away little dog park in Bellevue Park off the Southern end of Sportsground Street. The park includes the Bellevue Park Scout Group Den, a fenced off dog park, a play park for children and a basketball court and hoop, along with lots of beautiful gum trees and resident cockatoos.

Head towards the Ted Smout Bridge with your pup and you'll find beautiful areas to play. On-leash areas include any beach between the Houghton Highway and Woody Point Jetty, Clontarf and Woody Point, the beach between Drury Point and Queens Beach North in Scarborough, and any beach between Jamieson Park and Endeavour Park in Scarborough.

The Moreton Bay Regional Council reminds dog owners to be considerate of others when walking or exercising their dog and be prepared to pick up after pets. The Council provides a network of waste dispenser bags and disposal bins throughout the Moreton Bay region and in dog off-leash parks.

The Great SHOVE-OFF

Kristine Lane

Not many of us know that Redcliffe was Queensland's first convict settlement. As a little backwater that was used to send Sydney's worst offenders, so they could be put 'out of the way', Red Cliff Point convict settlement lasted for only seven months in 1824, before finally being abandoned and transferred to Brisbane.

And what better way to learn about this intriguing phase in our history than in a new movie being filmed right here on the Peninsula, called The Great Shove Off.

Local producer, scriptwriter, director and jack-of-all trades extraordinaire, Richard Lancaster, along with his partner-in-crime, technical director and editor, Ben McShea, have already begun filming this little historical quirk of fate in the form of a mockumentary.

"We wanted to tell this fascinating story about how these hardened, roughened criminals were effectively told to shove off to someplace else, twice.

"Sydney's Free Settlers didn't want them, and neither did the Peninsula's natives or mossies. So with progress on the new Moreton Bay settlement considered too slow, Governor Brisbane ordered a second removal," says Richard.

"A parody seemed to be the best way to go, but everything you will see will be true to life and historically accurate."

The 80-minute movie is the second in a series called Queensland History Mysteries, of which 'Mutiny on the Gayundah' was the first instalment, a popular hit which helped to spur the demand for 'The Great Shove Off'.

> "We received a very good response for our first movie – also a parody — as people love learning about the past in a clever, humorous way."

With over 70 cast and crew members, all of them local, there is already a buzz amongst the community about this movie, which will end filming in November of this year.

"Everyone has come on board, wanting to help out. We use a local fancy dress business to provide all the traditional costumes, and some Redcliffe businesses and the Brisbane Movie Makers are helping to sponsor the movie.

"We've even got two Moreton Bay councillors and our Mayor, Alan Sutherland, having parts in the movie," Richard adds.

Filming on weekends all over the Peninsula, and with Richard and his team passionate about highlighting some of the poignant historical landmarks of Redcliffe, he urges for everyone to keep their eye out for men in red regimentals or broad arrows and leg irons.

Have you tried out Council's MBRC Request App? The new app enables users to quickly and easily advise Council of road and footpath damage, tree or park maintenance etc. All requests are automatically lodged into Council's system for internal processing.

Two more innovative apps also developed include Council's MBR Library app, which enables users to search the library catalogue, reserve items and view borrowings. The second app, Once Upon a War Time (MBR WW1), is based on the First World War experiences of real life Moreton Bay residents. The app shows details of the uniform the first ANZAC's wore, weapons used, links to early war memorials and official service records of over 800 service personnel from our region.

These digital innovations will be part of the 'out of the box' panel, at the Local Government Association Queensland conference to be held on October 18. The trade display aims to showcase innovations from Councils and live demonstrations, using the apps on iPads and iPhones will be a feature.

It is an exciting time for our community with the opening of the new Redcliffe Peninsula Rail Line.

I grew up in Redcliffe and heard that a tramway or rail line had been promised for the Peninsula from as early as 1890. As the Member for Petrie from 2007 I lobbied the then Federal Labor Government and Infrastructure Australia to recognise the rail line as a project of national significance. On 26 July 2010, working in partnership with Allan Sutherland, Mayor of the Moreton Bay Regional Council and my Federal and State colleagues we publicly announced that the long awaited rail line to Redcliffe would finally be built. At the time, I promised the Redcliffe community that construction on the $1.15 billion project, with 12.5km of track and six stations would commence in 2012 and that we would be getting on the first train in 2016.

As the State Member for Redcliffe since 2014, I have continued to work with my Queensland Government colleagues to deliver the new Redcliffe Peninsula train service and I look forward to joining the many Peninsula residents who will take the first trip between Kippa-Ring and Petrie stations on 3 October 2016.

Luke Howarth MP

October will be my second month representing you in Canberra for this new term of Parliament. I'm working with my colleagues to make sure our National Economic Plan is on track. This includes further tax cuts for small businesses to help create local jobs. We're also cutting personal income tax to target bracket creep and reward hard work.

As Redcliffe locals, I'm sure we're all well aware of the peak-time traffic on the Gateway Motorway. This is why the Federal Government has contributed almost $1 billion towards the upgrade, which will see the Bracken Ridge to Nudgee section widened to 6 lanes. The design includes widening Deagon Deviation to 2 lanes in each direction (so people travelling home along Sandgate Rd will be able to continue through to Redcliffe along Deagon Deviation).

Toast-worthy Speeches

Peninsula Toastmasters Hosts its Annual Public Speaking Contests

The time has come again for the Peninsula Toastmasters to host their annual public speaking contests at the Redcliffe Library!

Peninsula Toastmasters is a locally run club comprised of members who love or want to learn to love public speaking. The club is part of a world-wide conglomerate under the banner of 'Toastmasters'. Originally, being a member was intended to make you a 'master' at making 'toasts' at special occasions. However, Toastmasters has moved beyond this, now equipping members with skills to speak on various topics and occasions.

Current President, Darryl Willmot proudly observes that Redcliffe has gained much over the 35 years of the existence of a club that delivers Public Speaking and Leadership Training at the highest level for a modest price.

Darryl himself is the prime example of the benefits of being a Toastmaster, competing successfully in speaking competitions run by the local and other clubs.

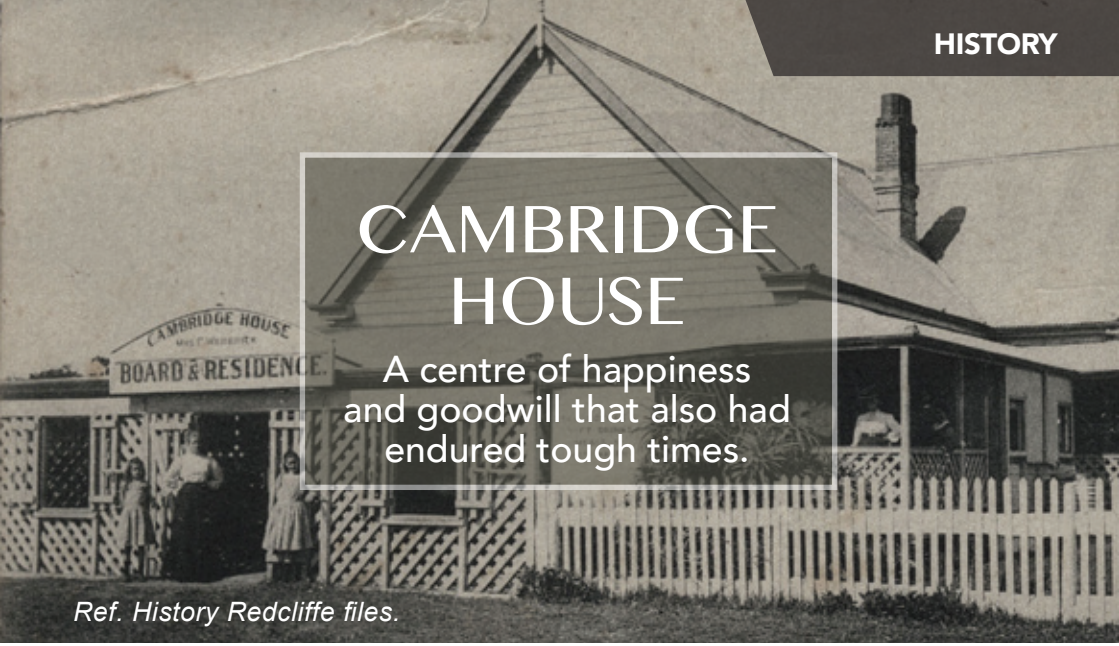
> "What being a Toastmaster has meant to me", says Darryl, "is the opportunity to speak to a supportive and encouraging audience, receiving valuable feedback to assist in improvement and the leadership roles the Toastmasters organisation offers."

Importantly, the club is hosting its annual contests in October, and for the first time (ever) the public is invited. At club contests, members have the opportunity to show their mastery of speech preparation and presentation in categories such as International, Humorous, Impromptu and Evaluation. Involvement is optional. Those who compete experience a different focus and a wider audience. For those who choose not to speak, there are management roles such as chairing, time keeping, judging, collecting and counting votes.

The contests in October will give the public a chance to see what Toastmasters is all about. The contests will be held at the Redcliffe City Library on the 3rd and 17th of October at 7pm.

Entry is free. All are welcome!

For more information please contact the Vice President Public Relations, Kris Kamusinski on 0466 856 063.



CAMBRIDGE HOUSE

A centre of happiness and goodwill that also had endured tough times.

Ref. History Redcliffe files.

The story of Cambridge House, Woody Point began when John Conder and his sister Mary arrived in Australia from Cambridgeshire, England c1854.

John went to Sydney and Mary came to Brisbane. She ran a boarding house in Edward Street. After two sad incidents, John's daughter Florence Matilda, who was nine years old, was sent to her aunt Mary Conder in Brisbane.

After Mary's first husband died, she married William Edds, a well-known coach builder in 1885. They sold the Edward Street Brisbane property and bought land (2 roods, 4 9/10 perches) at Woody Point on the corner of Woodcliffe Crescent and Oxley Avenue (Main Coast Road.) There they built Cambridge House in 1891. Mary's red cedar wardrobe that was transported by horse and buggy and boat became a talking point for guests. The property extended to a Post Office/Store near the jetty. Mary brought up Florence as her own daughter, and she helped Mary in boarding house life.

In 1895, Florence married Frederick Warbrick in Sydney. Two daughters Lucy May and Florence Harina were born. Sadly, within the period 1904-1911, Fred, William and Mary had passed away.

In her Will, Mary Edds left Cambridge House to her niece Florence Warbrick who, with the help of her daughters Lucy and Ena and sister-in-law Ella, carried on running the guesthouse.

Many advertisements appeared in the Humpybong and Weekly Advertiser stating:

> "Cambridge House Private Boarding Establishment (first from jetty). Terms £1 per week or 4/- per day."

Florence was on local fund-raising committees, had regular church services in the dining room and attended to births, illnesses and deaths with assistance from other local identities.

The boarding house operated for nearly 40 years. Third generation family converted the Cambridge House bedrooms into four flats but they kept the lovely old dining room with its fireplace and cedar furnishings. A shop and an office were added and functioned on the site. The massive wardrobe built originally for the first Queensland Exhibition is now a feature in Newstead House, Brisbane.

The Redcliffe Herald of 17 February 1971 reported a Farewell Reunion of relatives and friends connected with the 80 year old Home. Demolition and plans for future development were outlined.

Local Exhibition redefines Mondays

"Rainy days and Mondays always get me down," Karen of The Carpenters once sang.

Now a popular topic of internet memes, 'Monday-itis' is still very much a social concept to which most of us succumb.

But why? Asks Margate ceramic artist and Griffith University student Ally W., in her collaborative exhibition 'She Does Mondays'.

"Mondays can be fresh starts, hopeful beginnings, opportunities to re-evaluate, to make plans, to show up, be confident, productive, positive and strong," says Ally W.

"If art directs society or society directs life, either way, the culture of hating Mondays is in need of a shake-up."

'She Does Mondays' is a multi-media

art exhibition celebrating a feminine connection with getting up, getting dressed and showing up – because Mondays can be awesome if we tweak our preconceptions.

“[I saw] the need for supportive opportunities for independent artists to gain exposure for their work, as well as join forces in promoting positive social commentary,” says Ally W.

“Visual culture is a valuable community resource that deserves our attention … poor old Mondays, they really are great if you tilt your head slightly to the left”.

‘She Does Mondays’ brings together artists from all around Australia and the world, including UK women’s institute group ‘Let’s Make Jam’, US-based spoken word poet ‘Mr oCean’ and local teacher and award-winning ceramic artist Heather Mcquade.

The exhibition will also feature award-winning woodblock relief print-maker Lenore Bassan from Sydney, South Australian artist and designer Bec Burford, master potter and glass artist Barney Weinrauch and acclaimed sketch artist Alicia White.

“Many more soulful and hard working artists have produced works themed on the different ways which Mondays inspire their arts practice,” says Ally W.

‘She Does Mondays’ is on display at the Redcliffe Cultural Centre’s Door Gallery until 18 October. Meet the artists on Thursday 13 October from 10am to 11am.

■ Works for sale include photography, paintings, portraiture, jewellery, woodblock prints, ink and watercolour drawings, poetry and acrylic abstracts.

Comment allez-vous ? Très bien, merci !

France is famous for many professions like, vigneron (winegrower), chef, baker (Boulanger), gendarme/police...

By the way, did you know French people call their policeman “Poulet” ...yes, like poultry (chicken).

The French have several slang words for their “Policiers”: “flics, keufs”... one of them stands out: ‘poulet’. This “terme” originates from the ‘tragique’ events of the “Commune” of Paris in 1871. “La station de police” burnt down, Jules Ferry made the new “station de police” on the former site of poultry market…Intéressant!

Une autre profession intéressante! French Boulanger is a very busy profession; ten billion baguettes are baked every year in France. Incroyable!

If you want to know someone’s profession, la question est:
Quelle est votre profession?
What is your profession?
I am /Je suis professeur de Français
Is it now your turn to find out the name of your profession in French! Bonne chance!

Redcliffe's path towards informed PROPERTY INVESTMENT

cc Sunset August (3) by bertknot/Flickr

Great Expectations

How will the new train line affect property prices?

Trains are due to finally start running on the Redcliffe Peninsula line from Tuesday October 4, but what of the effects on our property prices?

Spikes in property prices associated with new transport routes usually occur in two phases. The first is early on when a project is announced as buyers move in, aiming to capitalise quickly.

This has been borne out by recent figures published by property data solutions/pricefinder showing median house prices in Redcliffe and Kippa-Ring breaking through the $400,000 price barrier for the first time ever at $414,000 and $413,000, and Scarborough over $500,000 at $505,000 in 2016.

The second phase of price growth comes once the new transport project is in place and people realise its benefits, such as shorter commute times. This boost in prices is easier to time and pick, but generally the gains are not as much as for those who took the risk and bought earlier.

In this second phase, studies show that the property values growth was most prominently felt within a very limited distance from the stations, within walking distance or around 1km. Beyond this zone, the effects can be negligible.

New infrastructure is not all upside. You can live too close to roads and rail and suffer rather than benefit. Closest to the stations and rail corridors, nuisance effects such as noise and increased traffic can reduce property prices.

Interestingly, studies show that the extent to which a rail system captures ridership affects the extent to which property values are increased, and commute time savings contribute most to price increases.

During community consultation, online surveys recorded almost 50% of respondents planning to use the new stations. Nearly 54% of the population travel out of the area and until now most people (83%) use a car.

For this reason, conditions are favourable for home values in the areas around the new stations to jump by up to 10 per cent in the next six to 12 months. We predict a spike in values, provided the right homes are selected.
