'HATING ALISON ASHLEY' TRIBUTE TO MOUSETRAP'S OWN

Hating Alison Ashley is a tribute to one of Mousetrapp's top directors, Sandra Hines, who passed away suddenly early this year.

At the time she was working on a youth-only production of a 'Midsummer's Night Dream'. This play carries on her love of work with the theatre's youth with Tanja Stanley doing the honours in the director's chair.

It is definitely a coming of age play with a grade 9 girl, Erica Yurken (Emma Hutt) nicknamed "Yuk" by those who love and loathe her. Erica feels as though she is stuck in a family that doesn't appreciate her talent and excellence. Her school life is lacking severely as well, until a new teacher arrives. Erica sees Miss Belmont as someone who will recognize her for the great talent that she is.

This is until Alison Ashley (Tyallah Bullock) enters the picture. As a transfer student, the tall, skinny, blond, siren-like Alison is switched into Erica's class. Erica tries to make Alison her best friend but goes a little too far and ends up scaring Alison into staying away from her. To this, Erica decides that she actually hates Alison Ashley and goes on a rampage to outshine her at every opportunity that presents itself.

Erica's class goes on a week-long camping trip where they will also be performing a play at the end of the week for all of their family and loved ones. Seeing this as her big chance, Erica not only writes the play but she decides that she will be the lead character. It's not until she starts her first line in the first day of rehearsal that she learns she has a paralysing case of stage fright and cannot perform, and has Alison act as her stand-in until the big night when she plans to steal the show. Erica's perfect image of Alison is broken when she finds out that Alison's family is too busy for her and will not be attending the play. Erica then goes from hating Alison, to feeling bad for her and trying to help her.

Erica's stage fright is found out and after a humiliating rehearsal and she tries to run away only to be found by Miss Belmont and taken back to camp. Erica is banned from her own play because of her attempt at running away, the play goes off without a hitch, with Alison as the leading character. Just as the play concludes, Erica sneaks into the auditorium and is about to be reprimanded by Miss Belmont while the cast of her play are taking their bows, when Alison calls for applause for the director and writer, which happens to be Erica. Both Alison and Erica are recognized for their talents, the tension with Miss Belmont is sidestepped, and everyone leaves happy and fulfilled.

FAIRY TALE WHODUNIT

InsideOutside Theatre Company twists a few unlikely genres in the unveiling of its interactive murder mystery 'Once Upon A Serial Killer' at Scarborough's 3eightrine.

With a cast of colourful and somewhat unpredictable fairy tale characters, the play follows the plight of Red, Snow and Cindy as they battle to rid Storyville and the surrounding countryside of werewolves, witches and vampires.

The catch — there is a serial killer in their midst. Is it tame Wolfie, Shorty the dwarf, Charming or one of the girls?

“ This is a fun show with lots of twists and turns and of course, murder. We have an amazing cast from all over Brisbane, and it will definitely be a night out with a difference,” says Artistic Director Angela Witcher.

Producers encourage lively audience participation by inviting theatre-goers to arrive dressed as their favourite fairy tale characters ready to join in on the sleuthing.

Melanie Collis says the show “got everyone involved on the edge of their seats,” calling the interaction “mind-boggling.”

'Once Upon A Serial Killer' premieres 9 and 16 June at Scarborough's 3eightrine, located at Landsborough Avenue, opposite the beach. Tickets will cost $62 (including a delicious three-course meal). The show will also be playing at Redcliffe Musical Theatre's new venue in Anzac Avenue on 4, 5 and 6 August.

A woman with long dark hair, wearing a red velvet cape over a black dress and a black choker, is holding a large, ornate axe. The axe has a silver head with intricate designs and a black handle. She is looking directly at the camera with a slight smile.

■ Tickets can be booked online at www.insideoutsidetheatre.com/murder-mysteries/ or by calling Angela on 0499 002 989. Discounts are available for group or multiple bookings.

NEW SKILLS WITH KAYAK CLUB

Learn new skills and get fit with the Queensland Sea Kayak Club's basic skills sea kayaking course!

By Melissa Bailey

For many of us, sea kayaking sounds adventurous and challenging, but trip leader and event organiser Martin Purvins of the Queensland Sea Kayak Club says it's fun!

Welcoming all sea kayakers from 18 years old who are interested in participating in organised trips and events, the Queensland Sea Kayak Club provides training, education and organised recreational events for its members. There are 90 members in the Club, with a basic skills session run each month from different locations.

“ I wish I'd discovered sea kayaking years ago,” says Purvins, “It's a fun and supportive environment with the Queensland Sea Kayak Club. We all help one another and enjoy one another's company.”

During the course participants will learn about kayaking and safety. Participants learn how to present their craft and equipment for inspection, swim 50 metres in canoeing clothes, show a full understanding of the basic safety requirements for paddlers and how to launch the craft and paddle away from the launching point.

“We pride ourselves on the safety side of things,” says Purvins.

Participants will also learn paddling and emergency stops, turning the craft, and using the paddle as support on the water among other important kayaking skills.

To join the course, you must have your own sea kayak including spray skirt and life jacket. However, if you don't have your own equipment, please contact the trip leader who may be able to lend a kayak for a small fee.

To join the club costs $90 per year and includes the free basic skills training. Otherwise, nonmembers can participate in the course for $10.

“We'd love to see new faces at the Club for the basic skills training,” says Purvins, “If you love the outdoors, come along!”

■ Registration closes 16 June for the 17 June basic skills course. The course runs from 8am to 10am on Queens Beach in Redcliffe. To register, email events@qskc.asn.au.

Jessica's SWAN SONG

By Kristine Lane

When 17-year-old Jessica Alback performs her last dance at this year's Queensland CSTD Dance Festival, it will be with a sense of pride and nostalgia.

Since the age of two, performing has become a way of life for this Grade 12 Southern Cross College student who aims to pursue a dancing career overseas or complete a Performing Studies degree at university next year.

“I adore dancing and music as it allows me to tell a story and to express myself. I also love acting and singing, so musical theatre is where I want to be,” says Jess.

Member of Brisbane Junior Theatre and winner of last year's Street Tap category at the Redcliffe Dance Festival, Jess will also be performing routines in the Cabaret, Contemporary and Slow Modern sections at this year's festival. Usually training 5-6 days a week, 3-4 hours per day, Jess is no stranger to hard work.

“I have competed in numerous dancing competitions all over the state since a child, but my favourite is the one closest to home,” says Jess. “I have attended this festival every year since I was five, so it will be bittersweet as this could very well be my last one.”

This year's festival is expected to attract at least 2,000 participants and 6,000 attendees.

Organiser of the event, Sharon Alback, says, “This is an immensely popular competition, catering for dancers all the way from Bundaberg and Gympie to Toowoomba, Lismore and the Gold Coast. It allows talented performers to showcase their skills and accomplishments, picking up prizes, trophies and scholarships along the way.”

Running from 22nd June – 6th July at Mueller College's Performing Arts Auditorium on Morris Road, Rothwell, the 12 day festival has three sessions per day with categories of Classical, Ballet, Contemporary, Jazz, Hip Hop, Song and Dance, Acrobatics, Cabaret, Novelty, and a Mature and Motivated section catering for mums. Both females and males of all ages will be performing solos, duos, trios, groups, troupes and school groups, all the way from novices through to the very proficient.

“I still get that buzz performing,” says Jess. “On stage, I'm in my own little world where time stops, and I can't wait to experience it again at my old stomping ground — the QLD Dance Festival.”

Peninsula Floral and Art Festival.*

Themed ‘Celebrating the Peninsula — Showcasing its Icons’, the festival will pay tribute to the scenery, landmarks and recreational activities for which the peninsula is known.

By Rebecca Fawcett-Smith

Sponsored by the Moreton Bay Regional Council and supported by Redcliffe Art Society, the free three-day community event offers something for everyone.

“We’ve got a model of a whale tail coming out from Moreton Bay with flowers representing the whoosh of the whale’s breath, a model of the old toll gate on the Hornibrook Bridge that’s going to be done in paper flowers, we’re building a mini Gayundah wreck in distressed steel with plants coming through chosen to represent the wreck’s brown, purple and rust colours, and there will be much more to see with plenty of beautiful, fresh flowers representing our area,” explains festival coordinator, Liz Peters.

Complementary paintings by members of the Redcliffe Art Society, including Marie Walker, Jocelyn Polly and the late Sandra Hines, will grace the walls, with pieces from the Redcliffe Pottery Group also echoing the sentiments of the installations.

Young art enthusiasts will be kept entertained interacting with displays dedicated to the Redcliffe Dolphins rugby league team and the peninsula’s abundant fauna.

“We’ve got some rugby memorabilia that kids can dress up in, and we’ve got some Australian animal soft toys that they can play with in the kiddy corner.”

On days one and two of the festival, visitors can enjoy $5.00 Devonshire teas and mini concerts on the back deck, with local musical identity Joan Wilkie performing from 2pm to 3pm on the Friday, and Robert Holt playing the parish’s treasured Collins organ from midday on the Saturday.

“There’s only two of these organs in the whole of Australia and we’ve got one of them. It’s a very special organ,” says Liz.

REDCLIFFE'S BANG-UP SHOW

For almost seven decades, the Redcliffe Show has stunned visitors with its variety and authenticity, and this year will be no exception.

From the fast-paced motorsport action in the main arena to the Northside Beekeepers' Association's honey display, the Show will delight visitors over the weekend of 30 June to 2 July.

Member for Redcliffe, Yvette D'Ath said the show had been a vital part of the fabric of the Redcliffe community for decades — with benefits flowing to participating businesses, charities and service clubs.

"The Redcliffe Show is possibly the most family friendly inclusive shows in the State; making a solid commitment to enable all of our community to participate," said Ms D'Ath.

Last year, hundreds of early-year school children attended the show preview on People's Day.

"[This] included wonderful displays prepared by schools from across the Peninsula and an up-close experience with domestic and farm animals," said Ms D'Ath.

"Friday is free for children, and adults can enter on Friday for only $2 with a newspaper voucher — enjoying some $30,000 worth of free fireworks and a ring program including both the ELJAY and Caboolture Moto Cross and the motorbike Globe of Death."

Daily entertainment and displays will include an animal nursery, works by local schoolchildren, woodcraft, Luke's Reptile Kingdom and magic shows by local entertainer Eric Summons (12pm daily).

Show goers will be able to enjoy camel rides, show bags, a scrumptious selection of food vendors and a treat from Lollypop, the roving clown.

If you're up for a thrill, head over to the main arena where you will be able to catch the show jumping throughout the day, and the night-time rumble of the Trackskill V8 Ute Challenge and other motorsport performances.

For those attending on the Friday or Saturday evening, be sure to finish your experience at the main arena for the massive fireworks display.

The 68th annual Redcliffe Show will be held from Friday 30 June to Sunday 2 July at the Redcliffe Showgrounds. Admission for adults $12, children $5, pensioners $5.

HEART-STOPPING STUNTS

V8 UTE CHALLENGE BACK FOR REDCLIFFE SHOW 2017

By Zuzanna Kamusinski

The heart-stopping stunts of the Trackskill V8 Ute Challenge will again feature at the Redcliffe Show, and Director Gary Baxter said he was thrilled to be returning to his “favourite place in Australia”.

Gary said the utes have been regular crowd pleasers at events like the EKKA and the Adelaide Royal Show over the last 10 years.

“We’ve been all around Australia, and if I could pick one place to live, it would be Redcliffe,” he said.

But while we may have taken Gary’s breath away, there is no doubt he will return the favour with his renowned performance.

“I’ll be in the Holden and [Townsville V8 ute driver] Graham Edwards will be in the Ford.”

Gary has been competing in various classes for more than 20 years and is regarded as one of Australia’s leading drivers.

The two-time Australian ROH Wheels Commodore Cup Champion started Trackskill in Adelaide in 1997.

“The Adelaide Royal Show called me to say they needed some action, so we put together a show and the phone has been off the hook ever since,” said Gary.

Show goers will be able to meet Gary and Graham for Trackskill posters, information and photos after their performances.

“Come on by. I might be in the bar, but most likely we’ll be hanging around the cars,” said Gary.

Show goers can catch the Trackskill V8 Ute Challenge on Friday evening (5.30pm and from 7pm, after the official opening) and Saturday evening (5.30pm).

WHALES Ahoy!

Slapping tails and raised pectoral fins will once again break the waters of Moreton Bay when the annual humpback whale migration reaches our coastline.

By Rebecca Fawcett-Smith

Every year between June and November, humpback whales migrate north along Australia's east coast to mate and give birth. Along the humpback highway lies Moreton Bay Marine Park, a sheltered inlet where the humpbacks stop to rest, feed and play.

Kerry Lopez, Owner and Captain of Redcliffe's Brisbane Whale Watching for the past 22 years, has noticed a new trend forming in recent years. Protected by Moreton Island, and with shallow waters that offer sanctuary from predators, Moreton Bay Marine Park is becoming an attractive calving area and nursery ground for the humpbacks.

"Historically they've always gone as far up as the Whitsundays to give birth and then they've come down into Hervey Bay [to nurse]," explains Kerry.

"Because water temperatures have increased over the last ten years, what we're finding is that they're staying around in Moreton Bay a lot longer. Pods can stay for two to three days."

Only half a century ago, the east coast population of humpbacks was almost decimated by whaling. Now protected in Australian waters, the whales have made a spectacular comeback, with an estimated 18,000 visiting the Moreton Bay coastline last year.

"The amount of pods we were seeing last year was just extraordinary. Some days, everywhere you looked there were whales. We're expecting 20,000 to 22,000 this year, so near on back to full recovery which is one of Australia's hugest success stories."

With only two commercial whale watching permit holders operating in Moreton Bay, spectators on board the vessels are guaranteed close encounters with these gentle giants of the deep.

“When they come up close and lift their big four metre pectoral fin up and roll over and look at you, it's just one of those things that you can't explain. And seeing the mums and the babies play is fantastic.”

Creative Voices

UNITE FOR FORUM

Calling all painters, photographers, jewellers, bloggers, cabinetmakers and everything in between.

The Creative Voices Forum is coming to North Lakes on June 17 and the call is out for people in the artistic industries to get involved.

Presented by the Moreton Bay Arts Council, the event provides groups, individuals and businesses involved in culture and the arts the opportunity to exchange ideas and discuss issues affecting the local arts scene

The second of four forums in 2017, the event will represent 1200 creatives in the community.

Local singer-songwriter Louise Winton says the ideas and debate generated through the forum was extremely beneficial to her business.

"The Creative Voices Forum connected me with people and information that have helped me make momentous changes to my performing arts business," she says.

"Thanks to people sharing their knowledge about organisations, services and funding, I now have a more positive direction and can focus on spreading my gift of song to a wider audience."

Husband-and-wife team Peter and Carol Williams are specialist glass artists, and have in previous years found the forum to be well worth their time.

It is a great event as it enables artists from many different genres to come together to discuss common challenges," Carol says.

"It also allows the group to map out a path that will enable artists to continue to grow and become sustainable in their practice through business development workshops.

"Some of these workshops are commencing in August and I will be attending How To Set Up And Run An Arts Business."

The event will kick off with a discussion of current projects and new opportunities available at the Cultural Centre, led by Councillor for Arts and Culture Matt Constance and special guest speaker Geoff Cox.

Subsequent presentations will include business promotion ideas, sustainable practices and future event and celebration concepts.

President of the Moreton Bay Arts Council Janice Charlish says the event gives creatives from every genre the opportunity to come together to find a stronger voice.

"With over 100 creative groups in the region, we decided to be an advocate for creative groups and individuals," she says.

BETWEEN THE TIDES

Deception Bay's foreshore will be awash in colour when Carte Blanche and the Moreton Bay Arts Council host the fourth annual 'Between the Tides' art exhibition.

By Rebecca Fawcett-Smith

A free one-day community art event, 'Between the Tides' aims to highlight environmental issues while celebrating the local surroundings. This year, the muted colours of Deception Bay's tidal sand bar will blossom into a palette of saturated colour under the theme, 'Colour the Beach', with installations made using found objects and recyclable materials.

“We've made crabs out of plastic plates, we've got hundreds of corks on straws and coloured tags on sticks that will be like gardens, we have stakes that are all coloured that will be put out, and we have people made up from things,” explains Carte Blanche member, Karin Hart.

Schools, community groups, art groups and recreational artists are all welcome, and with Deception Bay District Girl Guides, Cascade Place, and students from Redcliffe State High School just some of the contributors, the sandscape will be a celebration of creativity and diversity.

“We want people to realise that anybody can do art, and this is an ephemeral type of art really, more than anything.”

Set in the great outdoors and interactive by design, 'Between the Tides' fosters a connection between art, play and nature.

“We have different interactive things for the children to do, and unlike most exhibitions, they can touch everything and run within it all. Different families that have come over the years come back because of that. It's also nice for little children to see that art can be anything. It's not just painting or just sculpture.”

With the foreshore a popular dog off-leash area, art connoisseurs of the canine variety are also welcome, and with a coffee vendor on site, one has everything one needs for an immersive stroll between the tides.

PUTTERS KITCHEN TEES UP A HOLE-IN-ONE

As far as 19th holes go, Redcliffe Golf Club is on to a winner with Putters Kitchen Restaurant, one of the club's and Redcliffe's best kept secrets since 1960.

With sweeping views across the green and a recent refurbishment, it is the perfect spot for a relaxed lunch or dinner, or perhaps a cheeky tippie or two.

Caterers Katie and Dale McMullen have been in charge of the restaurant for almost a year following an extensive career in hospitality spanning more than 20 years.

Katie says the restaurant offers an exceptional dining experience for all ages.

“We have a very unique layout and fantastic view of the golf course, so it makes for a very atmospheric meal,” she says.

“We are also very reasonably priced so patrons can enjoy a great meal without breaking the budget.”

Katie says they are excited about expanding the offerings on site for guests and having the club recognised for more than golf.

“We are working together with the golf club to build new events, and get people excited and talking about the golf club and all the wonderful facilities that we have to offer,” she says.

“On offer is catering for occasions small and large including birthdays, weddings and corporate events.

“We are also in the process of organising events such as High Tea on a Budget, seniors day and bingo.

“We have recently launched a dance night with introductory dance classes, dinner and a great variety of music.”

Katie says they are passionate about the local community and are looking forward to sharing their hidden gem with the general public as well as current club members.

“We love the people of Redcliffe – everyone is extremely friendly and always have time for a chat,” she says.

“The community feel is so welcoming and we appreciate the wonderful support the people give to local businesses.

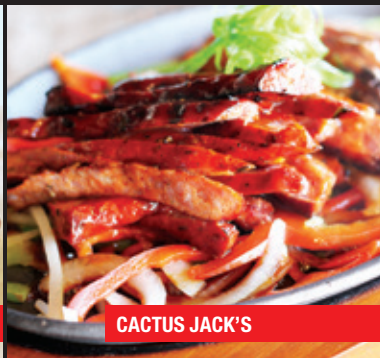

“We have had great feedback so far, particularly for our popular Tuesday Ladies Day as well as our daily light lunches menu, which includes specials such as Thai chicken salad and pork belly burger with crackling and caramelised onion coleslaw.”

Originals get the Peninsula grooving

It's only two events in but already the musical extravaganza that is the Scarborough Originals has seen some great crowds and even better tunes ring out across the Peninsula.

Audiences have grown for each event and businesses are also getting on board, donating time, prizes and money to pay bands, ensuring the events have an exceptional and united community presence.

And organiser Kim Ferguson couldn't be more stoked.

"The first two events have been a blast," Kim says. "We have had a wonderful turnout from the community. Really positive feedback and wonderful support from those attending and from the wider community.

"A number of local businesses have been donating to the raffles and prizes and we have also had great support from Mon Komo, who have been assisting us in paying artists.

"Support from the community has been wonderful and we are so grateful for the community coming together in this way."

Kim says Scarborough Originals "100% depends on community involvement" and has been so impressed by the support that she foresees the event running for years to come.

"We have seen all types coming out and enjoying the beautiful surrounds, amazing music and community atmosphere of The Originals," she says.

“ Both events have seen attendees of all ages dancing to the music in front of the stage.

"We have been seeing children dancing with grandparents, teenagers grooving, adults letting their hair down and thoroughly enjoying what music provides."

Kim says the June Scarborough Originals will take on a rather groove-laden vibe, featuring bands ITES, Golden Age of Ballooning, Redcliffe band Lunchtime and Bridget O'Shannessy.

"We do have an amazing five-piece reggae outfit ITES headlining next month," Kim says.

"Prepare for some serious grooves."

Kim says organisers are still looking for volunteers to help run the event and anyone interested in being a part of an exceptional community event should get in touch.

"We have a great little team already but always looking for some more help," she says.

"We are also looking for more sponsors as well, prize donations for us to raffle off or even silver and gold sponsors to assist us in funding the event would be great."

■ The next monthly Scarborough Originals is Saturday, June 3 at Jamieson Park, Scarborough. For info or to volunteer, see the event Facebook page.

A WORD FROM OUR REPRESENTATIVES

Koliana Winchester

I am delighted to support the Peninsula Education Precinct (PEP) Respect Project. This important initiative is part of a local commitment to providing a safe and supportive learning environment for all students and school staff across the region. How we as a community handle conflicts makes a significant difference to the learning and development of our local youth and the positive environments we aim to establish and foster for them. I encourage all members of our community to work together to demonstrate respect to all parents, teachers and staff, students and community members.

For further information please contact Redcliffe State High School on 3897 1111.

Project Update: Works undertaken at the MacDonnell Road / Maine Road, Clontarf intersection included marked bike lanes, a pedestrian refuge and the installation of a painted median for right turn lanes at both the MacDonnell Road/Maine Road intersection and MacDonnell Road/Church Street intersection.

Yvette D'Ath MP

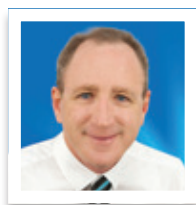

I congratulate all thirteen Peninsula schools, who have taken the initiative and are working together on the Peninsula Respect Project, to promote a culture of respect in all aspects of our community. The schools have agreed to focus on respect when doing business and will support parents and the broader community to engage in positive ways to maximise student learning outcomes. The project is providing an important vehicle for schools, parents and citizens associations and the community to raise and discuss issues and explore strategies to strengthen partnerships and promote respect for each person.

The Peninsula Respect Project aligns with the Government's Respect our staff, respect our school campaign being rolled out across Queensland state schools to promote safe and supporting learning environments.

I encourage everyone in the Redcliffe community to engage with the principles of this project. Government, business and community organisations, as well as individuals, all have a role to play in building a community based on respect. For further information, or to become involved, contact Redcliffe State High School on 3897 1111 or my Electorate Office on 34487100.

Luke Howarth MP

The Redcliffe Peninsula punches well above its weight as a breeding ground for sporting elite.

From Arthur Beetson to Petro Cioniceva, Geoff Huegill, Jess Schipper and breaststroking superstars Leisel Jones and Tarnee

White — the Peninsula has proven its sporting prowess.

You'll be pleased to know we've got a good pipeline of youngsters committed to seeing our reputation endure.

Four times a year I get to meet some of our best when I award Federally-funded Local Sporting Champions Grants.

I was honoured recently, to present $500 each to athletes from a wide range of sports. From trampolinists to triathletes, these athletes will use the funds to assist them to pursue their sporting goals.

The next funding round is now open to athletes aged 12-18, however applications close June 30. Sport is a satisfying and worthy pursuit but it can be quite costly.

If you know of a young athlete travelling to state, national or international championships you think might benefit from financial assistance, please point them in the direction of the program at https://www.ausport.gov.au/ais/grants_and_funding/local_sporting_champions. Alternatively, they can contact me on 3284 8008 or luke.howarth.mp@aph.gov.au

SHARING THE PLAYGROUND

Pilot project expands school playground to entire community

In a first for the region, Moreton Bay Regional Council partnered with Humpybong State School to complete an exciting new shared playground now available for both students and the wider community to enjoy.

Moreton Bay Regional Council Mayor Allan Sutherland said while a fence and locked gate partition the rest of the school, the innovative pilot project's new playground is accessible to ages including climbing structures, spinning tops, slides and swings, and is a fantastic outcome for all young people in this area."

Councillor for Division 6, Koliana Winchester, said the pilot project is a great example of what is achievable when a local community band together.

"The new shared playground will be a fantastic new asset for our community, which both school students and all young families in our community can enjoy," Cr Winchester said.

"The playground delivers more than 150 different activities including a large timber the broader community outside of school hours through a gate from Margate Parade.

"The Margate community has been telling council they'd love to see new spaces for children to play along the Margate foreshore, but it had proven difficult to locate a new site large enough," Mayor Sutherland said.

"In a first for our region, council has joined forces with Humpybong State School to deliver a new $180,000 playground on the school's existing foreshore area which will not only benefit their students but can be opened up to the whole community outside of school times.

"The playground delivers exciting and challenging play equipment for children of all climbing frame, forts, slides, spinning tops, swings, hopscotch and undercover seating areas.

"A big thank you to Humpybong State School's P&C Association for partnering with council to deliver a project which will not only benefit their students but our entire community.

"This is a great example of the fantastic community outcomes we can achieve when we work together."

The Humpybong Shared Playground has been delivered in partnership between Moreton Bay Regional Council ($160,000) and the Humpybong State School P&C Association ($20,000).

Big Change, 'Small' Business.

Big tax change becomes law (Definition of small business now up-to- 10 million in turnover, instant asset write-off still there for another 12 months)

The government's hard-fought change to the corporate tax rate for small businesses has also altered the definition of "small business" to now include companies with up to $10 million in annual turnover, meaning budget pledges to extend a number of tax concessions to more Australian companies will be realised.

When it unveiled its Ten Year Enterprise Tax Plan in the 2016 federal budget, the government promised to "put small business first" by extending the turnover threshold for a number of tax benefits previously on offer for companies with up to $2 million in annual turnover.

These include access to the immediate asset write-off scheme when investing in items worth up to $20,000, simplified rules around stock takes, the option of accounting for GST on a cash basis, and the opportunity to take up more simplified PAYG processes.

While the changes do not change eligibility for capital gains tax concessions for small businesses, which currently apply to those with a turnover of $2 million or less, they were projected at the time of last year's budget to extend benefits to 90,000 more Australian businesses.

Small businesses are the engine room of our economy. The changes will mean businesses of up to $10 million in turnover will be able to immediately start claiming the concessions; the government's tax bill that has recently passed on Friday essentially shifted the definition of small businesses to those with up to $10 million in annual turnover.

The tax rate for eligible companies has reduced from 30% to now 27.5% from 01/07/2016 and if you operate your business through an entity other than a company the threshold for 8% tax discount (up to $1,000) is for businesses turning over up to $5 million.

Businesses can buy office equipment, install fit-outs, new tables, chairs, photocopiers, and 3D printers [through that write-off] ...

The notion of going out and replacing old equipment with the new has become a lot more attractive. It's a really good example of how things should work.

The Budget handed down on 09/05/2017 has indicated the $20,000 instant asset write-offs are for companies turning over up to $10 million and now runs until 30th June 2018. .

RENOVATE

for perceived value

Renovating lets you manufacture immediate growth in a property rather than wait for it over time.

The renovators goal is to improve the functional space and visual appeal, making a property look new again while adding more in perceived dollar value than the actual cost outlay.

The aim is to at least double, ideally triple, every dollar you spend on your renovation.

Perceived dollar value means the worth that the renovated property has in the mind of the buyer. Importantly this not the perceived value of the actual renovation but rather the entire finished home. Initial value of the property, it's location, buyer needs and suburb generational changes all have an impact on the profit result.

So what renovations can you make to a property that adds the most value? Here are my top 3 changes you can make to a property to deliver a high rate of return, time after time.

STRATEGY 1: PAINTING

Nothing transforms a home like a lick of paint in fresh modern colours. The average cost to have a standard three-bedroom family home professionally painted is $3500 internally and $4500 for the external works or you can do it yourself for an approximate cost of $1600 for the internal and external works.

STRATEGY 2: ADD A BEDROOM

Adding an extra bedroom can cost on average $50,000–$80,000 but can have a massive financial upside. Properties are typically valued by two primary means: land size and the number of bedrooms. You can't change the land size but you can certainly add a bedroom.

STRATEGY 3: UPDATE YOUR KITCHEN

The kitchen can make or break a sale and as a general rule of thumb, two per cent of the house value is your budget. That's $10,000 on a $500,000 home. You can paint old cupboards and replace the doors and handles. Replace the bench top, appliances and old, outdated taps.
