RUSSELL MORRIS

The Redcliffe Leagues Club will be hosting Australian music royalty in October when Russell Morris rolls into town!

It was 1966 when Russell Morris first showed up on the Australian music scene, and he quickly took it by storm. After a career spanning more than 50 years, Morris is still going strong.

Redcliffe Leagues Club Marketing Manager Tomara Spreadborough is understandably excited.

"The Redcliffe Leagues Club provides over half a million dollars in free entertainment each year for our members and guests. Russell Morris is an Australian music icon, and we are very proud to be bringing him to the club absolutely free."

In 1969 Morris released his debut solo single 'The Real Thing', a swirling piece of pop psychedelia that reached number one and became the biggest selling Australian single of the year, and a series of top ten hits soon followed including 'Sweet, Sweet Love'.

This legend of Australian music is showing no signs of slowing down; in recent years carving a place for himself in the blues and roots scene with a series of amazing albums. In 2012 'Sharkmouth' went platinum and reached number six on the ARIA charts.

> "With the success of Sharkmouth, it really let me off my leash so to speak," said Morris. "It showed me that people want music that tells them a story and moves them."

Sharkmouth was followed by 'Van Diemen's Land' in 2014, which was certified gold, and 'Red Dirt — Red Heart' (2015) which won an ARIA for Best Blues and Roots Album.

"These albums are about looking back at the characters that deserve to be remembered and then doing that in the best way I know how – through song. It's about leaving a legacy," Russell says. His career has seen a series of highlights, and he was inducted into the ARIA Hall of Fame in 2008.

■ Russell Morris' musical journey has been very much 'The Real Thing', and you'll have the chance to see him in action at the Redcliffe Leagues Club on 6th October from 8pm. This is a free event.

A MARVELOUS NIGHT FOR A BUSH DANCE!

The Zonta Club has over 30,000 members across 65 countries and dedicates itself to improving the status of women worldwide through service and advocacy. Redcliffe club president Sammy Hunt is expecting their upcoming bush dance to be an exciting and lively night.

> "The band will have a caller explaining all the dance moves throughout the night. There will be raffles to be won on the night, and dinner will be provided."

In the past, Redcliffe Zonta has supported a range of projects including the making of a documentary about Breast Cancer Awareness entitled 'Side by Side', the distribution of birthing hygiene kits into developing countries, and the creation and local distribution of domestic violence Safety Cards which contain information and important contact numbers for women affected by domestic violence in our community.

Ms Hunt says, "Zonta is an active advocate for domestic violence awareness, and has just had signs displaying helpline numbers placed in all the female public toilets on the peninsula."

She also sees the organisation's impact locally in other ways that assist women in the community.

"We are very active in encouraging [educational] opportunities for women. This year we have provided scholarships for mature age women to take up or continue to study."

The Night Of Hope Bush Dance is an all-ages event, so the whole family is welcome to attend, and everyone is encouraged to dress for the occasion!

Dig out your famous worn out bush hat and boots and book yourself a place, because this event will be putting the 'fun' back into 'fundraiser'!

TEAM UTOPIA HEADLINES SCARBOROUGH ORIGINALS IN OCTOBER, AND FROM ALL REPORTS, IT WILL BE THE BIGGEST ONE YET.

The event has gained momentum over the past six months and is gearing up for a powerhouse event in October. Billed as "Rocktober", Scarborough Originals has secured local favourite Team Utopia to head up a massive lineup.

When Redcliffe local Dan Nebe isn't on the road with the Hoodoo Gurus, making music videos for bands or organizing Rockin' 4 The Homeless, he finds time to play in Team Utopia.

Redcliffe band Team Utopia has forged a spot within Brisbane's rock elite after some high-profile support and six years of slogging it out.

Formed in 2011 by frontman Dan Nebe, the band has played to massive crowds ever since.

The band has evolved over the last six years with many lineup changes over that time. The project has finally discovered players who suit the music, and Rockin' 4 The Homeless 4.0 crowds got a taste of the new sound and lineup this year. From all reports, they stole the show with a blistering set.

Nebe writes very catchy tunes, which can also be found on YouTube. "Where is my Heart" is always a fan favourite.

> "Team Utopia is my release from reality," says Nebe. "I have always wanted to write songs that tell a story. Some good and some bad. They come from my soul, and it is a kind of magic that I can't describe the feeling it gives me to play live to a crowd — it is quite intense.

TEAM UTOPIA

"When the first two rows of the crowd know all the words and sing them with me, it's quite surreal, to say the least. Having two beautiful ladies as my rhythm section has added an energy and dynamic to the band. Amanda Emblem plays Bass from Diva Demolition with Sue Kennet from Chick Flick/Her Way To Hell on drums. Such a powerful lineup now, and I have to pinch myself all the time to assure myself I'm not dreaming."

ARIA Hall of Fame inductee Bob Spencer (ex-Angels and Skyhooks) joined the band in May this year, and has added his myriad of experience to the already cult following the band has gained. We spoke to Bob on the phone this week and got some insights as to how his role in Team Utopia works.

"I think these songs are great Australian rock and roll songs and such a buzz to play," said Spencer.

"I've been following Team Utopia for about five years, and being asked to play lead wasn't a hard decision to make at all.

"A great bunch of girls and Dan holds his own quite well on stage. I was surprised by the following they have up there in Redcliffe. We played to a very rowdy crowd at 'Rockin' 4 The Homeless, and it took me a while to come down from our set.

■ The band will play their last show of the year at Scarborough Originals on Sat 7 October from 1pm at Jamieson Park Scarborough. Entry is free. All ages welcome.

2 HUGE SHOWS SET FOR MORETON KIDS FESTIVAL

With Peppa Pig and Despicable Me 3 performing live and five worlds of fun, the Moreton Kids Festival is paradise on Earth…for kids!

On Sunday 8 October, Pine Rivers Park in Strathpine will host the Moreton Bay Region's newest event dedicated to kids.

Moreton Bay Region Industry & Tourism (MBRIT) CEO, Shane Newcombe, said event organisers were very excited to announce the live entertainment at Moreton Kids Festival.

"Peppa Pig and Despicable Me 3 are currently two of the most popular children's shows in the world, and they'll both be performing twice at the event."

Families will also be treated to live magic shows, science shows, and music performances — all headed to the Moreton Kids Festival main stage.

First Class Markets

With a wide range of unique stalls, drinks and tapas, the Something For Me Markets at Sunset Blue, Scarborough provides the ultimate VIP market experience for ladies seeking some uninterrupted ME time.

By Katy More

The indoor market, founded in October 2016 on Redcliffe's foreshore, has been well received by women seeking more than coffee dates and who wish to shop without interruption.

Shoppers can enjoy a wine or cocktail from a private balcony, overlooking the endless view of the Harbour, Glasshouse Mountains and the Bay; While husbands tend to treat themselves to a beer at the Sunset Blue bar or head next door to the Moreton Bay Boat Club.

This five-star market experience is an inspiring local success story with founder Kirsty Saurin building the markets with no experience and the unwavering support of best friend Katrina Bray.

"After the birth of my son, William, I noticed that many women with young children were frustrated with being unable to attend markets without boring their husbands or having their curious toddlers getting up to mischief. They simply wanted somewhere to get together that wasn't a coffee shop where they could have some time to re-energise," said Kirsty.

> "My suggestion of a child-free market was well received, and although I had no idea what I was doing, there was overwhelming support from my family and friends."

Kirsty is encouraging all ladies to come and enjoy the VIP treatment.

"There will be a range of stalls from beauty and fashion, to jewellery and homewares and many other unique businesses showcasing their exquisite products."

■ Something For Me Markets will be celebrating their first birthday on Friday 20th October, from 6pm to 9pm at Sunset Blue, Scarborough. For more information visit www.somethingformemarkets.com.au and treat yourself to a girls night out.

TENORS ON TOUR

By Brooke Jacobson

Fans of classic tunes will be delighted to hear that tenor trio Tenori is performing at the Redcliffe Cultural Centre on October 20.

The life of a touring musician is often romanticised, with fans imagining it's just one big wild, non-stop party. But when Tenori — comprising tenors Craig Atkinson, David Kidd and Andrew Pryor — go on tour, it's far more sedate.

"Let's put it this way, I never saw any TV's being thrown out of hotel windows," laughs Craig.

"We've had some parties here and there and some good times, but those bands who trash hotel rooms have the financial means to clean them up."

"The travel (as part of the Ten Tenors) was too hectic, so we had moved on, but found that we still love singing, so we joined back up, and now we do smaller tours, but it's still doing what we love," Craig says.

"We all have young families now, so we only go away for three days at a time."

"We've got a band on stage with us for this show, which we don't always do, so we're really pumped about that," he says.

"There'll be lots of Broadway tunes, swing, some opera — just classic music that people really love to hear."

Craig says that style of music has never gone out of fashion, and believes people love it because it harks back to a simpler time.

"People were certainly less busy back then," he says.

> "And you know, travelling to Vegas to see the Rat Pack and people like that, was such a huge treat in those days."

Tenori has embraced social media and keep their fans up to date with a Facebook page and even their own YouTube channel.

"All our tour shenanigans are on YouTube," Craig says.

Just don't expect to see any TV's being thrown out of hotel windows.

"But seriously, we're really pumped about coming to Redcliffe. We can't wait to see you all."

■ Tenori play the Redcliffe Cultural Centre on Friday, October 20 at 7.30pm. Tickets: $35. Bookings: ph 3283 0407 or visit www.redcliffeculturalcentre.com.au

HOBBY FEST

By Brooke Jacobson

Collectors, crafters and creators from all walks of life will be drawn to Hobby Fest being held in Clontarf this month.

Hobby Fest coordinator Dianna Borger says the event is held every second year and has something for everyone.

"We first started in 2009, and it has grown since then," she says.

"We have all sorts of interesting collections on show this year, including a Star Trek display, a doll collection and a collection of ashtrays, which you don't see much anymore as people don't smoke as much as they used to."

Children will be interested to see collections of Snoopy and Pokemon memorabilia. There's also plenty to see for creative types, including quilting, watercolour painting, photography, embroidery and tatting, as well as model planes and woodwork.

For those interested in the homegrown movement, there will be a display about beekeeping and how to make your own homebrew.

"There will be plenty for sale on the day as well, including cards and woodwork items and we will have a cake and craft stall," Dianna says.

"Something that is really different this year is we have a lady coming along who makes ornaments from coral and seaweed. That's something we've not seen before, so I am very interested in that one."

Twilight Singers from Redcliffe Gardens will provide the entertainment at Hobby Fest, and there will also be poetry performed. Morning and afternoon tea will be available for purchase.

"It's great for people to belong to a club, particularly children," Dianna says.

"So anyone interested in these hobbies should come along and learn about them."

Hobby Fest will be held on Saturday, October 21 at St Peter the Fisherman Anglican Church, 13 Lucinda Street, Clontarf, from 10am to 2pm. Entry is $2 and children are free. For information or to display items, please phone 3284 9283.

Tempest Seafood Restaurant and Teppanyaki Grill

Bird O' Passage Parade, Scarborough Boat Harbour
P 3203 5744

Tempest Temptations BY THE SEA

After two years on the popular Scarborough dining scene, primo waterfront restaurant, Tempest Seafood Restaurant and Teppanyaki Grill, is moving from strength to strength.

Owner David Scardoni and wife Lina are excited about the way the restaurant has evolved over the past two years and see a bright future for the Peninsula favourite.

"When we first started the business we made some mistakes — we did lots of great things, but we also tried some things that didn't work," he says.

"But we listened to the people in the area, and we are really happy with the feedback we have received.

"We brought back the seafood buffet as it was very popular with visitors, and we have also changed the menu to include more affordable options.

> "People often view us as a special occasion dining venue, and while we offer that high-end service, we have a more affordable arm to the venue also."

"I had a kitchen manufacturing business in Canberra, while Lina owned a restaurant that was very popular with politicians and local celebrities," he says.

"We moved to the Scarborough area four and a half years ago and bought a local organic café — it is like a small country town, without the hustle and bustle of city traffic.

"It wasn't long before we needed to grow, and we thought Tempest was a good opportunity."

David says quality is of the utmost importance and the restaurant prides itself on serving the best produce available.

"We want people to understand that there is a real difference with quality Australian fish," he says.

"We offer superior quality prawns, bugs and fish, all straight off the local trawlers — one of our trawlers snap freezes the produce every day, while the other is fresh seafood, so customers are guaranteed excellent product."

The restaurant also offers the only teppanyaki service on the Peninsula, live music on a Saturday evening and Sunday lunch, and amazing views over the marina.

Summer is nearly here!

From late September onwards through the hot season, you can expect to be seeing this distinctive bird in our area. Travelling from Papua New Guinea and Indonesia where it spends the cooler months, this bird times its arrival with the ripening fruits of various trees.

CHANNEL-BILLED CUCKOOS

Scythrops novaehollandiae is the world's largest cuckoo. Heralding the approach of summer, they have gathered many common names including Rainbird and Stormbird. Unique in both appearance and voice, it really makes you take notice.

Measuring up to 66cm in length, with a wingspan up to one metre and a large thick curved bill, they create an unusual silhouette both perched and in flight.

The call is loud and far travelling. It is often one of the first to be heard of a morning, and even through the night in the breeding season. Many different variations of "kwark" sounds are made from drawn-out plaintive ones to excitable and raucous outbursts.

Though shy, these birds are often seen (and heard) feeding in groups, mainly on fruit, especially figs and mistletoes. Also eaten are insects, eggs and fledgelings.

As is the habit of brood parasites, the channel-billed cuckoo requires the assistance of other species to raise their young. When laying their eggs, the cuckoo pair often works as a team to distract or drive a prospective host from its nest.

Several eggs are laid in the nests of crows, currawongs, magpies or butcherbirds. Once hatched the cuckoos are then raised by their hosts. With voracious appetites and demanding behaviour, the young cuckoos thrive at the expense of the original chicks.

Leaving the nest before being able to fully fly, and perching on a nearby branch, they continue to clamour for feeding. It is quite a sight to witness usually crafty crows compliantly feeding these rowdy youngsters, who are now bigger than them.

Look out for these birds now and through the warmer months. They can be found anywhere figs are fruiting, either in parks or suburban backyards, and are commonly seen at the Clontarf Environmental Reserve.

To familiarise yourself with their call, go online. Listening to birdcalls is a great way to feel more connected to nature.

Redcliffe's ferry tale gets a whole lot better

Locals and tourists alike are set to be rolling in the isles with the launch of the Redcliffe2Moreton express, a ferry service that will carry passengers across the bay to the beautiful Moreton Island.

The 45-minute journey starting from Redcliffe Jetty will roll across Moreton Bay and into the township of Bulwer, at the northern end of Moreton Island.

Operator Lisa Edwards from Redcliffe2Moreton says the service will provide a boost to the Peninsula's economy.

"This will bring more people and dollars to the region to visit Moreton Island," she says.

"Tour operators will need more staff and services. Accommodation will sell more rooms. It's a win-win situation."

She says the service will be perfect for weekenders making their way across to the island and will open up a beautiful part of the world to those who have never set foot on its beautiful white sand. And the large, comfortable boat even has a bar on board.

"At the moment we are operating Fridays and Sundays - this will allow people to either spend a weekend or day on Moreton Island," Lisa says.

"Tour operators will meet us when we land to take people on tours, or customers can just spend their time relaxing on the beach and snorkelling the Bulwer Wrecks.

"Moreton Island is the third largest sand island in the world with no roads or high-rises like the Gold Coast. It is beautiful and pristine, and Moreton Bay has dolphins, dugongs and turtles."

Moreton Bay Region Tourism chief executive Shane Newcombe says the new service will be a huge asset for the region.

> "We are absolutely thrilled that the Redcliffe2Moreton Express passenger ferry service will now provide visitors with access to this world-famous destination twice a week," he says.

"These services offered on Friday and Sunday will now make Moreton Island an easy-accessible day trip, weekend or extended holiday from Redcliffe – which is just another draw card for tourists to visit and spend money in the region".

And locals are in for a treat, with a special price applying just for them.

"We have a local-only price for the people of the Moreton Bay Region and surrounding areas - $25 one way to Moreton Island. This is only available by phoning Redcliffe Travel on ph 3284 5192," Lisa says.

A Reminder for Life

In 2016 Georgia Dee, who has been in and around the Redcliffe community for over two decades, learnt that she had cancer in her left breast, and after a difficult journey Georgia now has an important message for women everywhere.

By Philip Woods

Georgia had a career that built her skills in marketing, finance, and project coordination, as well as spending time managing a cattle property in Far North Queensland. She had raised two kids and had two beautiful grandchildren, and she had spent much of her recent years caring for loved ones suffering from - ironically - cancer. She was a busy woman.

"I kept putting off mammograms, pap smears and other health checks... I kept falling off my own to-do list" Georgia says.

After feeling some pain in September 2016, Georgia visited her GP, who sent her for ultrasound and mammogram tests on both breasts. These tests and a subsequent MRI and biopsies indicated that Georgia had a total of four cancerous tumours in her body.

"That changed everything! It was then that I realised that I could be in serious trouble. I now believe that an MRI is absolutely essential for suspected cancer patients."

Georgia explains it as 'life before cancer' and 'life since cancer'.

"From that point, there seemed to be a constant roller coaster ride of medical appointments, tests, hospital visits and so on. Everyone I met was caring and supportive and did their utmost to encourage me. However, I went from one emotion to another in record time. One moment — I was being pragmatic about it all and telling myself one day/thing at a time, the next moment I was an emotional mess."

> "Surgery to remove my left breast occurred in December 2016. I came home only two days before Christmas. As I play the role of Santa in our family, I was busy preparing, wrapping and hiding gifts right up until I went into hospital. Our family's 2016 Christmas happened in my bedroom so that I could both participate and rest as I needed. It was certainly a different Christmas."

“I am still working through health issues as a result of breast cancer. Before cancer, I had two speeds — full on and ‘splat’. I am now endeavouring to bring more balance into my life”.

Adjusting to life after cancer can be challenging for many people, and is often influenced by the specific type of cancer, and its treatment. An individual’s personality and support network can also affect the range of responses cancer survivors have to the disease, and a common response is to seek out the positive elements of the experience. Some choose to start ticking items off their bucket list with renewed drive, take up a new hobby or to travel, or make bigger efforts to spend time with friends, family and loved ones.

Like Georgia, many people take the opportunity to make positive lifestyle changes and also to advocate for increased awareness of the disease in their local community.

Georgia’s message is a simple one; make the time for health checks. “My purpose in sharing my story is as a warning to others... It is easy to look at national advertising for cancer warnings and have them seem so distant. Cancer is as local as you and me. If in sharing my story, I can prevent even just one person from leaving it too late — then my experience of cancer has been turned into a story that’s worthwhile. Above all else, I want to make some good come from my cancer experience.”

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month and a good time to take some action to help prevent the disease in your own life or your family’s as well as in the broader community.

Make an appointment for a mammogram or talk to the women in your world and encourage them to do so, find out more about breast cancer and share this information with your friends and family.

you could help to save someone’s life!

Redcliffe can look forward to cleaner parks, beaches and public areas with the passing of a Bill in State Parliament to introduce a container refund scheme and a ban on plastic shopping bags from 1 July 2018. These initiatives reflect the overwhelming support of the community and particularly our young people. It will stop the scourge of plastic shopping bags and put a price on beverage containers, so they get recycled.

By passing this Bill, we say to our young people that we value our wildlife, especially our marine creatures like turtles, seabirds and dugongs. We say that we want our parks, our waterways, Moreton Bay and the Great Barrier Reef to be litter free.

The container refund scheme will see most drink containers between 150ml and 3 litres eligible for a 10 cent refund, although some containers are exempt, such as containers for plain milk.

Refunds will be available when empty eligible containers are returned to designated container refund points. Reverse vending machines are also likely to play a significant role in people's ability to access the refund.

I want to take this opportunity to thank small, medium and large businesses that operate locally. Over the last 12 months, we have seen strong job growth throughout Australia with some 325,600 new jobs created (70% full-time). There has never been a better time to employ, with incentives like the instant asset tax write-off, company tax reductions and a strong business plan that ensures you achieve your goals. This in turn is great news for locals looking for work.

My next Job Seeker Boot Camp is at the Redcliffe Golf Club, Clontarf on Friday 6th October at 10am. Job creation is a huge focus for me, and my Boot Camp gives local job seekers the opportunity to network, gain interview feedback, career insights and learn resume tricks and tips from local employers and job providers.

I recently held a National Broadband Network (NBN) forum for local residents and businesses at the Redcliffe RSL. It is great news for locals that over two-thirds of my electorate can now switch to the NBN.

An Adventurous Author

By Ellen Moynihan

In her latest book, 'Lively Tales From Papua New Guinea', Bev Floyd interweaves her own memoirs and tales of adventure with the history, voices and stories of those she met along the way, all accompanied by beautiful photography.

At just 24, Bev left Australia with her sights set on living in Papua New Guinea. After arriving in Port Moresby in 1964, Bev taught at an Indigenous school, before eventually moving to a teacher's college in the Highlands. Bev remained in Papua New Guinea for 12 years, and it was this period that inspired her current work.

After leaving Papua New Guinea, Bev went on to have many more adventures all over the world. She is the author of several books, and her last two, 'Adventures in Queensland' and 'The Rise and Fall of the Australian Democrats', follow a similar structure to 'Lively Tales from Papua New Guinea'.

'Adventures in Queensland' documents Bev's own travels around the state, visiting countless towns, meeting the people who live there, learning their history, and taking photographs.

As a foundation member of The Australian Democrats, 'The Rise and Fall of the Australian Democrats' is based on the eight years Bev spent working to ensure the survival of the movement as a modern and progressive political party.

Among the many adventures she recounts in her book, Bev fondly recalls nerve-wracking journeys in a tiny, precarious aeroplane during a storm, crawling through bushes and climbing steep mountains on the Kokoda track, and a near capsize in a narrow canoe, when it collided with a reef along the coast. "It's wonderfully adventurous, I absolutely adored being up there," she says.

■ The Book Launch for 'Lively Tales from Papua New Guinea' will be held on Friday the 13th October at 1pm at the Redcliffe Library, 476 Oxley Avenue, Redcliffe. The event is free to everyone.

ADVERTISMENT

Silver Screen SUCCESS

Local talent is coming to the big screen in November when filmmaker Brian Lee Watson showcases two films at the Redcliffe Cultural Centre.

By Brooke Jacobson

Both movies — a 10 minute short, followed by an hour-long feature — are inspired by real-life events.

Brian says the first film, Mabel's Surprise, is a comedy.

"It's a bit of an intergenerational mix-up, involving smartphones," he says.

"It's very funny."

The feature film, Sixty-Six Pound Eleven and Tuppence, is based on events from Brian's childhood.

"I don't want to give too much of the story away, but this is based on a true story; something that happened with me and my sisters when we were kids," he says.

"It's very moving, and I expect there won't be a dry eye in the house."

Brian has been a performer and songwriter since the age of 12 and has enjoyed some chart success both in Australia and abroad.

"In 2009, I had two songs in the JJJ charts and two in the US blues charts as well," he says.

He has been making films for the past five years and says it has been a hugely enjoyable experience.

"I've still got stories to tell, and this is just a different medium for me," Brian says.

"It's been a big learning curve, but I have had so much support.

> "I find the writing part quite easy, that really flows for me, but it takes at least 50 to 60 people to make a small film and (these films) would not have happened without Redcliffe people.

"There's a real sense of community here, and I would not have been able to make these films without Redcliffe people; they're just wonderful.

"Most of them were not paid, they just volunteered their time and talents."

Brian has four more feature films planned, with an exciting thriller currently in pre-production.

The world premiere of Mabel's Surprise and Sixty-Six Pound Eleven and Tuppence will be at the Redcliffe Cultural Centre on Tuesday, November 7 at 7.30pm. For more information, see Brian's website: www.brianleewatson.com

A $2.4 million upgrade of Scarborough Beach Park is now complete featuring new wide shared pathways, all-abilities picnic facilities and a 71m2 jumping pillow — the first of its kind in the Moreton Bay Region.

Multi-million dollar Scarborough Beach Park upgrade complete

Scarborough Upgrade

Councillor for Division Five, James Houghton said the multi-million dollar council upgrade would help to ensure Scarborough Beach Park remained one of South East Queensland's most family-friendly beach and parkland areas.

"Home to the iconic pirate playground and the title of Queensland's friendliest beach in 2003, Scarborough Beach Park has always been immensely popular among local residents and visitors, and the new additions to the park will add even greater accessibility and more spaces for families to have a picnic at the park," Cr Houghton said.

"Another great feature of this important upgrade is the work undertaken to widen the shared pathways at the park, providing more space for the many cyclists and pedestrians who use this park every day to walk their dogs, enjoy the view and improve their personal fitness."

Cr Houghton encourages locals to make the most of the beautiful weather at this time of year, head outdoors and check out the newly re-opened Scarborough Beach Park.

"We have taken this park to a whole new level with 16 new picnic settings, new decks and viewing areas, and of course the new jumping pillow," Cr Houghton said.

"For park patrons who use wheelchairs and other accessibility aides, a new plaza area has been constructed underneath the southern fig tree with unique wheelchair-accessible tables as well as additional handrail and ramp access from Landsborough Avenue to make this space even more accessible to park users.

“For park patrons who use wheelchairs and other accessibility aides, a new plaza area has been constructed underneath the southern fig tree with unique wheelchair-accessible tables as well as additional handrail and ramp access from Landsborough Avenue to make this space even more accessible to park users. — Cr James Houghton

“We have also planted eight large trees to the park; these Norfolk Island Pine trees were grown on a tree farm and then transplanted to the site to reinforce the existing avenue of trees.

“For those who enjoy entertaining outdoors and picnics, there will be plenty to rave about with new picnic furniture on the southern end of Scarborough Beach Park that will overlook the beach.

“Much of the existing off-street parking has been retained, and extra on-street parking has been installed on Kennedy Esplanade, while a new concrete pathway has been constructed from the parking bays to the centre of Landsborough Avenue to meet up with the pirate-themed playground.”

Designed in consultation with local residents, community groups and business owners, Councillor Houghton said the existing basketball half-court near Kennedy Esplanade had also been reconstructed to allow for the foreshore shared path to be widened.

■ Scarborough Beach Park is located at 52 Landsborough Avenue, Scarborough.

TIMELINE

September to December 2016: The carpark to Kennedy Esplanade, paths and landscaping, at the southern end, was completed

June 2017: The jumping pillow opened

July 2017: The all-abilities picnic facilities opened

Queensland Bush Children's Health Scheme Redcliffe Centre

Royal Queensland Bush Children's Health Scheme Scarborough site before it was closed and relocated making way for The Bay apartments.

Credit is due to the State Governor Sir Leslie Orme Wilson for recognizing the physical and medical needs of children from 'Outback' Queensland.

Officially launched on 6 December 1935, the Queensland Bush Children's Health Scheme quickly established homes at Scarborough (7 November 1936, the original home was donated by Mr AS Huybers), then at Hervey Bay, Yeppoon and Townsville. Sir Leslie said, "The scheme is not just a charity, it is an investment in the future."

Successive Governors became Patrons and took an active interest in the initiative to care for the children. Redcliffe's close proximity to dental, optical and medical services in Brisbane ensured the youngsters had a great 'holiday' by the sea on the edge of Queen's Beach.

Recollections from two former staff members mention that "There were lots of kids who came to the Home with serious eye problems and a lot had cleft palates and harelips that needed sorting out at the hospital. Usually, the children stayed for six weeks at a time, but some medical cases would require accommodation for a year or more. They went to Scarborough State School while they were at the Home, so they didn't get behind. When the children were with us for a long time, you couldn't help but get attached to them, and it was upsetting when they went back home. Most of them didn't want to leave; we were so good to them, and they had such a lovely time here."

The Redcliffe home closed in 2001, and the facility was moved to 12-18 Haysmouth Parade, Clontarf. In 2005, the Redcliffe Centre at Clontarf was closed, and the Queensland Bush Children's Health Scheme left the Redcliffe Peninsula entirely. The sale of the original property ($2.9 million) at Scarborough allowed some of the organization's resources to be allocated to rural areas like Warwick. A change in focus of the organization brought wider emphasis on personal development and social skills for families as medical care became more accessible.

With the Bayside's inaugural DAY ON THE BAY concert fast approaching, event organisers are pulling out all stops to ensure a sensational, smooth-sailing event.

STARS ROCK BAYSIDE

EUROGLIDERS

Entertainers Daryl Braithwaite, Mark Gable, Wendy Matthews and the Eurogliders are among the musical acts that will rock the Bayside suburb on October 7.

Sandgate District Chamber of Commerce president Bill Gollan says he is looking forward to the community turning out in force for the event, the first of its type in the area.

> "WE HOPE IT WILL BE A SIGNATURE ROCK EVENT THAT WILL MAKE THE REST OF BRISBANE SIT UP AND TAKE NOTICE," HE SAYS.

"It is a great opportunity for the Bayside suburbs to get behind the concert, as all profits made will be put back into the community.

Bill says they have secured some of Brisbane's best food trucks for the event so audience members will be spoilt for choice.

"Some of the food trucks are The Cheese & Deli Kitchen run by the contestants from My Kitchen Rules, Greek Street Kantina, I Heart Calamari, Kraut N' About, Latin Bros and Paella Magic," Bill says.

"But Sandgate itself is home to many fantastic restaurants, cafes, bars and shops, so we encourage visitors to come a little early and see what the area has to offer.

"Have some lunch or a cheeky tipple, then hop on a bus to the show — there's plenty of post-concert establishments in the area for a celebratory evening drink also."

Bill says negotiating parking for the day has been a successful endeavour.

"With huge crowds of people attending Day on the Bay, we wanted to ensure transport was easy, quick and successful," he says.

"There will be plenty of off-street parking for those wishing to drive in, and we are also in the process of negotiating with a number of community groups to make more parking options available."

However, Bill says the best way to get to the event is a shuttle bus, which will run regularly from the middle of Sandgate to the event from 12:30 up to an hour after the concert.

SPRING INTO MARKET

The completion of the new Moreton Bay Rail Link infrastructure and a finite, land-locked supply of potential housing sites, the Peninsula is proving to be a popular investment choice.

After living for far too long in Brisbane's shadow, Redcliffe has evolved over the past two decades to become a cosmopolitan city.

In 2015, property analyst Terry Ryder named the area in his top five list of areas where property values will benefit from spending on major infrastructure.

Since then, the majority of the peninsula suburbs have enjoyed double-digit growth, much of that was in 2016.

The past 12 months have been a little slower in terms of overall growth. However, we have seen a shortening of the average days on the market.

Another positive factor is that we are still achieving solid rental returns with average yields still hovering just shy of five percent.

REAL ESTATE on the PENINSULA

If you are looking for maximum rental returns, you may consider investing in Rothwell or even Deception Bay where you will, at times, find returns of up to seven percent.

Whether you are looking at buying or selling, the spring market is sure to see a raft of new properties come to the market.

Scores of buyers are already scrolling through the pages of realestate.com.au and coming up with their plans of attack for open homes each weekend.

It's a great idea to get in early and arrange an inspection prior to the open if you find the home that's just right for you.
