Arts & Crafters Markets Look Merry and Bright

STORY PATRICIA HIGGINS

The Arts & Crafters Market Day has returned and is set to shine brighter than ever. The reinstated event will be Christmas-themed, providing shoppers with the ideal opportunity to browse handmade and affordable gifts from over 50 local artisans.

This gathering of local creatives has been a tradition since 2015, thanks to the Moreton Bay Arts Council, with the Old Redcliffe Fire Station serving as the ideal atmospheric venue.

Janice Charlish, president of the Moreton Bay Arts Council, said the day would highlight the collective talents of local artists and craftspeople and would be complemented by live music and performances.

"Come spend a leisurely Saturday morning perusing stalls and meeting local handcrafters," Janice said. "Linger on the lawn and enjoy the all-day music from Brisbane band SheBeen SheBang, who are back by popular demand."

Janice said there would be plenty to impress lovers of all things artisanal, including pottery, woodworking, mosaics, and textiles, as well as lovers of freshly-made food and beverages.

"You can choose from Italian pastries, sandwiches, coffees, iced teas and homemade fudge. Plus, we've even got a sausage sizzle supporting Redcliffe Little Athletics," she said.

Art demonstrations will run all day in festive surroundings that are sure to inspire the spirit of giving.

Unite Against Domestic Violence at Zonta Breakfast

Sue and Lloyd Clarke

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

Step up and say no to violence against women and children at a breakfast with some special guest speakers.

Sue and Lloyd Clarke from Small Steps 4 Hannah will be speaking at a breakfast hosted by the Zonta Club of Redcliffe Inc this month.

Club president Marie Stewart said the event had been organised as part of the annual international campaign, 16 Days of Activism Against Gender-Based Violence.

"It starts on 25 November, the International Day for the Elimination of Violence against Women, and runs until 10 December, Human Rights Day," Marie said. "It was started by activists at the inaugural Women's Global Leadership Institute in 1991."

Small Steps 4 Hannah co-founder Lloyd Clarke said he and Sue would be at the breakfast to talk about how the foundation started and what it does.

"The Small Steps 4 Hannah Foundation formed in memory of our daughter Hannah and her children, Aaliyah, Laianah and Trey, in February 2020 to start a movement for change, to HALT (Hannah, Aaliyah, Laianah, Trey) domestic violence and champion the introduction of coercive control legislation and education," Lloyd said.

"Through advocacy, education, funding and support service networks we are creating a safer, well-informed community that promotes respect and the confidence to act."

Lloyd said he and Sue would also be discussing the issue of coercive control.

"We want to get the message out about what healthy and positive relationships should look like," he said.

"We'll also be talking about our work with the Queensland Government's domestic violence taskforce, where we are lobbying to have coercive control recognised as a criminal offence. Importantly, as part of the foundation's ongoing education work, we will talk about some of the warning signs of coercive control, such as dictating what a person may wear, who they can see or where they are allowed to go. We'll talk about how to recognise these early signs in your partner, in your friends or even in yourself."

The breakfast is one of several projects the Zonta Club of Redcliffe Inc is organising as part of the campaign.

"It is important for individuals and businesses to support us by buying tickets to attend this breakfast to join with Zonta in Saying No to Violence against Women and Children," Marie said.

Tickets to the breakfast are $50 and include a donation to Small Steps 4 Hannah. To book tickets search for Small Steps 4 Hannah on TryBooking.

LADIES BRING THE LAUGHS

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

Four comedy queens of Queensland will hold court for a night of side-splitting laughs on the northside this month.

The whole audience will be in stitches when The Sit Down Comedy Club presents Comedy Queens at the North Lakes Sports Club on Saturday, 20 November.

Sit Down Comedy Club owner and director Fedele Crisci said North Lakes could expect a night of hilarity from four truly hilarious and gifted comedians.

"All four acts have incredibly different life experiences and comedic styles, which guarantees a little something for everyone," Fedele said.

The cast of comedy royalty includes Fiona McGary, who has performed for over 20 years in almost every comedy venue in the country, award-winning comedian and cabaret artist Jenny Wynter, Brisbane comedy scene favourite Ting Lim, and 2021 Raw Comedy Qld State Champion, Bron Lewis.

Fedele said the gender ratio in the global comedy industry was quite heavily skewed to men.

"This is not a reflection of talent, there's just simply more men performing comedy than there are female or non-binary comics," Fedele said.

"We decided to put together a show that exclusively celebrates some of the truly hilarious and talented women that are currently performing in the South East Queensland comedy scene."

Ting Lim, who has been performing with The Sit Down Comedy Club since 2011, said the audience could expect to have an awesome night.

"Everyone on the line-up is an absolute crusher and I am honoured to be on the same line-up with them," Ting said.

"I personally like talking about things that irritate me or don't make sense to me, so they can expect that from me."

Ting said she enjoyed playing to Brisbane crowds.

"They like having a good time and are honest," she said. "So you know when they are laughing that they are laughing because they are enjoying your performance."

"There is nothing better than to have a whole room of strangers laughing at an idea you find funny. I feel awesome after a great gig, especially when a joke I have been chipping away at worked. I love the rawness and the camaraderie that comes with it."

Shoppers Go Mad for Preloved Treasures

A trip down the rabbit hole has never been more engrossing and rewarding than when exploring Wilbury's Books and Mad Hatter Enterprises.

The two businesses share a shop in Redcliffe's CBD, offering an eclectic range of preloved treasures with a handful of new finds sprinkled in.

Rebecca, the owner of Wilbury's Books, supplies to book lovers as well as those searching for DVDs, CDs, guitar strings and the like.

Vanessa, the owner of Mad Hatter Enterprises, caters to those looking for one-of-a-kind items that are wearable (preloved clothing), practical (such as upcycled furniture), and even esoteric (crystals, tarot decks, and rare collectibles).

Rebecca and Vanessa combined forces in mid-2018 after recognising they could offer something even more special as a joint venture.

"We formed a warm bond of friendship while we were neighbours and eventually it became evident that we could achieve more as a team," Rebecca said.

They outgrew their original retail space on the block opposite Mon Komo, and opportunity knocked thanks to the late Redcliffe icon Ron Harvey.

"He was pivotal in our growth and getting us into our current space. We are eternally grateful to him and he is deeply missed," Rebecca said.

Since then, the pair's shared vision of creating a beautiful atmosphere offering preloved items (accounting for roughly 90 per cent of their stock) has continued to benefit both them and the community.

"It's a space to relax, feel safe and inspire creativity. We're all about less land-fill, less consumption of new products, and therefore fewer toxins in our little ecosystem we call Earth," Vanessa said.

Various sized spaces within the store are available for hire during business hours, accommodating people looking for a unique location to work remotely, run a book club, or even provide spiritual guidance. After hours, the entire shop can be rented to host an appropriate gathering.

Rebecca and Vanessa expressed their gratitude to the community and their families for their ongoing and unconditional support.

The Wilbury's Books and Mad Hatter Enterprises store is pet-friendly and you can find out more (including public holiday opening hours) by searching their respective business names on Facebook and Instagram.

WHAT'S HOT AROUND TOWN

STORY NADIA CHAPMAN

Sundays are for relaxing, and what better way to relax than to connect to the Peninsula waterfront with the Sounds by the Sea event?

Hosted by GypsySounds and In Full Circle with Emily P on Sunday, 7 November at Suttons Beach, the event aims to bring peace and calm to the community.

Locals can expect a guided meditation and sound journey with calming crystal singing bowls, which are said to help alter your vibration, allowing you to enter into a complete state of harmony and bliss.

Tickets are $20, and the event starts at 5.30pm.

Kick off your Sunday afternoon and start Halloween the right way with a cheeky beverage or two at the monthly Wine Fair.

Held at Sunny's Margate Beach at the rooftop bar on 28 November, the Wine Fair is on the last Sunday of every month, delivering a great range of wine, boutique spirits, and craft beer in partnership with Blacksheep Bottleshops.

A Sunny's Margate Beach event organiser said locals could expect a diverse range of beverages.

"[There will be] a variety of different wine suppliers that are always announced each month, during the week leading up to the event," they said.

Not only do you get to taste a dozen boutique beverages, you also get a free Riedel glass, charcuterie boards, and casual wine education from a knowledgeable panel.

The event goes from 11.30am-1.30pm. Tickets are $29.90pp. For more information go to www.sunnysmargatebeach.com.au.

Celebrate the first weekend in November with a selection of great tunes from the 80s, 90s, and 00s with the Queensland-based band Take Cover.

Performing at the Redcliffe Musical Theatre on Saturday, 6 November, Take Cover will deliver some of the best party rock and pop-rock from the United States, United Kingdom, and Australia.

The energetic four-piece band consists of passionate members living the dream by sharing the music they love with their audience during each gig.

Lead vocalist Richard Rubendra, lead guitarist Brian Merc, bassist Les Olsen, and drummer AJ Hazard will take the stage and keep you entertained all night long.

Entry is $5 per person at the door. For more information go to www.redcliffemusicaltheatre.com.

Clubhouse Reno Saves The Day

STORY PATRICIA HIGGINS

Summer at Suttons Beach is looking even more sensational thanks to a new clubhouse renovation and extension.

The iconic Redcliffe Peninsula Surf Life Saving Club (SLSC) has been given a well-earned facelift due to a $650,000 Federal Government grant facilitated by the Hon Luke Howarth MP, Federal Member for Petrie.

Redcliffe Peninsula SLSC deputy president Kylie Robins said the upgrades would benefit the lifesavers and the community as a whole.

"The upgrades include a new training room, an equipment room for boards and Nipper gear, and a trailer room for our inflatable rescue boat," Kylie said.

The new facilities will come in handy as the award-winning club's membership grows.

"We were named the Sunshine Coast Junior & Youth Development Club of the Year for 2020/2021, and we recently received a special commendation for Queensland's Junior & Youth Development Club of the Year," Kylie said.

"All are welcome to come down to Suttons Beach on a Sunday morning during summer to check out the new clubhouse and find out what surf lifesaving has to offer."

Kylie said she was grateful for the support of Hon Luke Howarth MP as well as Brisbane-based builders Compass Homes and EnProCon.

Ever wondered what it would be like to build a plane from scratch? The Ediflyers are a self-funded home school group who are constructing a RV-12iS with some expert help at Redcliffe Aerodrome.

Flight Youth Engineering directors Paul Reddish and Ashley Miller established the program to mentor students to build and fly a plane, under the guidance and supervision of experts from different sectors of the aviation industry.

"The mentors are people the students usually wouldn't cross paths with, and they are really experienced at what they do," Paul said.

The Ediflyers group is a one-off project, but the Flight Youth Engineering program aims to expand into nearby schools. The first school-based program is underway at St Columban's College in Caboolture, where students are building a fully operational, industry certified Van's RV 12iS aircraft – a first for an Australian school.

"There would be more than 100 years of combined aviation experience provided by the engineering mentors in the aircraft workshop there each week," Ashley said.

Once built, the aircraft will be kept for a short period to give students experience in maintenance. They will then be sold into the Australian aviation market, with the sale of the aeroplane providing funding for the next project.

"Schools buy all their own aviation tooling and so when the first plane is sold, they are ready to go on to the next one," he said.

Although the program is designed to work with schools, Paul said the real advantage was that it sat outside the curriculum.

"There are no assessments or assignments which can slow down progress and put pressure on students to compete. We engage and mentor students throughout the build and teach them that failing is okay. If they make a mistake, they need to repair it, but it's more important what they learn along the way," he said.

Local businesses can help fund these projects and have their logo displayed on the finished project – and, of course, feel a sense of pride in what they've helped achieve.

Top 5 Netflix True Crime Docos You May Have Missed

STORY @WATCHITWOMBAT

Think you've seen everything on Netflix? We've unearthed a few hidden true crime gems that may have slipped under your radar.

5. Conversations with a Killer:

The Ted Bundy Tapes

America's most notorious serial killer, Ted Bundy went on a killing spree across the USA.

Once he was caught (spoiler) he wasn't shy about spilling the beans. He retells his story to the police, accompanied by accounts from the cops who were hot on his heels. Although he felt like he was "just a normal individual", I'm sure once you've heard his recordings, you'll disagree.

4. Heist

Bringing a lighter tone to the true crime genre, Heist features different stories and interviews from criminals who stole millions of dollars and got away scot-free (sort of). This show helps answer the question, "What do you do with all that cash?". Where can you hide, who can you trust and does money really buy you happiness?

3. The Staircase

If someone is awkward and unlikeable, does that make them a murderer?

The Staircase follows the trial of Michael Peterson, who may or may not have fatally pushed his wife down the stairs. Just when you think the truth is about to reveal itself and you've cracked the case, another layer of mystery is revealed.

2. Cocaine Cowboys: The Kings of Miami

There are some crims who just seem to keep getting away with it, such as Willy & Sal. The most prolific drug traffickers in US history, they sometimes handled more than 75 tonnes of cocaine – leading to the world's largest drug case. It's fascinating to watch how they elude their rivals and the police, especially when they're hiding in plain sight.

1. American Murder: The Family Next Door

Possibly one of the most confronting documentaries you'll ever watch. No narration, no re-enactments, just home videos, security camera footage, Facebook posts and text messages. When a husband comes home to find his pregnant wife Shanann Watts and her two children missing, it starts a series of events that makes you realise how evil some people can be and just how much of our lives are being documented.

Add Your Voice to the Multitude

STORY JODIE WOODWARD

If you're always singing loudly in the car or the shower, it might be time to lend your skills to a choir. Multitude Choir is open to anyone aged over 18 with a desire to sing as part of a group and there's no audition required.

Multitude Choir marketing and promotions manager Adele Moy said the group was formed in 2004 by some local music lovers to bring together people who were passionate about singing in a contemporary choir.

"Music is a universal language," Adele said. "It is uplifting, makes your heart, mind and soul sing, especially in these uncertain times. It is lovely to have a place to go every Thursday night, where it doesn't matter if you are feeling a bit intimidated or shy about your singing ability.

"The sheer joy of opening your mouth and lungs and joining in with like-minded people overrides everything."

Adele said many people who've joined the choir have never sung before or haven't sung since their school days.

"Some of us read music but a lot don't, which is fine because Dale Lingwood, our very patient musical director, teaches us by learning to listen and then repeating," she said.

The choir often performs their own concerts at local venues with special guests. They also sing at festivals and events throughout Brisbane. One such event is Brisbane Sings, which features choirs and singing groups from all over the city, performing separately and together. Due to restrictions, it will take place in video form this year.

"Multitude has been participating for eight years and is the only choir from the Northern Moreton Bay region to do so. They have been filmed performing on the foreshore and the Redcliffe Jetty. The video will be widely distributed, showcasing our own beautiful area," Adele said.

If you've been thinking about joining a choir, Adele said now is a good time.

"The choir is gearing up for some fun Christmas performances and is starting to learn carols and Christmas songs."

For more information, go to www.multitudechoir.com.au or search for Multitude Inc Choir on Facebook.

Come and join us in our boat, we will take you for a ride

The Redcliffe Pink Snapdragons was started by Jayne Coe in 2005. After finishing her treatment for breast cancer, Jayne wanted to start something so that other women with breast cancer going through treatment or survivors of breast cancer had a place where they could find kindred spirits and support. She saw an ad for Redcliffe Red Dragons so decided to have a paddle and find out what it was all about. One of the coaches, Linda Riedel was also a breast cancer survivor and together they started a dragon boat club for breast cancer survivors. Redcliffe Pink Snapdragons was born. Jayne picked the name Snapdragons. The club gradually grew and the paddlers started taking part in Regattas across south east Queensland. From there, it grew, participating in regattas both interstate and overseas. Jane sadly lost her battle with breast cancer in 2016, and in Jayne's memory, the club members decided to make a garden outside the clubhouse and fill it with Snapdragon plants. In 2019 Jayne's garden was completely destroyed by vandals, so we are now in the process of revamping Jayne's memorial with a unique art piece that represents our memory of her.

We welcome new members, both social and sports paddlers. If you would like to try dragon boating, you are welcome to come along for the first 3 paddles, no commitment. Anyone and everyone can enjoy Dragon Boating, whatever fitness level you may be and whatever age you are. It is a water sport where you can enjoy the social activity and camaraderie, but also you can challenge yourself, testing the extremes of your fitness and endurance in teamwork and competition.

Our Theme Song

This song was pieced together over a mug of coffee and lots of brainstorming until we came up with words that portrayed the way we feel.

Redcliffe Pink Snapdragons, Simply the Breast.

(Sung to the tune of "Puff the Magic Dragon")

We are sisters young and old, together we're less stressed.

Check your breasts more often, you'll be glad you do.

Because you'll catch it early and you'll live to ninety-two.

Redcliffe Pink Snapdragons, Simply the Breast.

If you don't believe us then just put us to the test.

Puff your chest out further, do it with pride.

Come and join us in our boat we'll take you for a ride.

Redcliffe Pink Snapdragons, Simply the Breast.

We've battled hard and paddled strong, a cure is our quest.

Strike Gold in Redcliffe

STORY ALEASHA BLISS

Have you ever dreamed of investing in precious metals? Gold, silver and platinum continue to be popular assets for savvy investors who want to avoid high-level depreciation through inflation on their investments.

Private Vaults Australia can be found on the site of the old Commonwealth Bank in Redcliffe, and they can help you discover if buying precious metals is the investment for you.

The company also has security deposit boxes that ensure complete safety of personal items that may be at risk of theft, fire or damage if kept in your home.

Private Vaults Australia general manager Peter said that the company has a 40-year trading history, with offices all over Australia and Singapore. The Redcliffe branch has been operating for three years, and its huge location accommodates three vaults to protect your valuables.

"We are also Gold Bullion Australia and we're the third largest bullion merchant in the country – the largest in Queensland," Peter said. "A lot of people don't know we are here, so it's really exciting seeing first-time bullion buyers coming in and us giving them the resources so they can go away and make choices."

The company's website lets you follow live prices and charts to see the buy and sell prices of gold, silver and platinum. You can also look at previous patterns to pinpoint the best time to invest.

Currently, gold prices are much lower than they were a year ago.

"I always say to folks, take your time," Peter said. "Look through it, and make a decision, but at some point, gold's going to jump. I think the wonderful expression a friend of mine said, 'I'd rather be a year early than a day late because when it goes it's going to go like a skyrocket'."

Peter said Private Vaults Australia never recommends people put all their eggs in one basket, but the safest way to protect themselves is to diversify their investments.

For more information, or to purchase bullion or set up a security deposit box, go to www.privatevaults.com.au.

There will be plenty to see and do with a free car show by the water, showing off Hot Rods, old school muscle cars, classics, modern V8s and motorcycles. There will also be giveaways and prizes, kids entertainment, live music, food stalls trade stands, a VIP area and VIP parking.

Good Nutrition for Seniors

*Friday, 19 November, 11am-12pm
Redcliffe Library*

The Good nutrition for seniors presentation will help you stay healthy and independent for longer. The presentation will cover the types of foods, vitamins and minerals that will promote healthy ageing, provide tips and tricks for weight management and strategies to assist with a reduced appetite and improve motivation. This session is free to attend. Bookings are required. Phone the Redcliffe Library on 3883 5745 or email redcliffe.library@moretonbay.qld.gov.au.

Pets in Public Spaces - Information Session

*Saturday 13 November, 8am-12pm
Bicentennial Park
Hornibrook Esplanade, Clontarf*

Council Rangers will provide information about your responsibilities as a pet owner. Get some tips and advice, and pick up some freebies at this pet-friendly education event. There will also be free microchipping for your registered dog at the event. This is a free event and no bookings are required.

EMPOWERING WOMEN: BPW North Lakes President Sara Gault, MC Sally Foley-Lewis and session presenter Terri Tonkin are ready to raise women up at the Women's Empowerment Workshop on 13 November.

Women's Empowerment Workshop Amplifies Confidence

Self doubt is one of the biggest problems women face in their professional careers whether they are seeking a promotion within an organisation or building stronger relationships in a team environment. The key to success is learning how to overcome this negative mindset and BPW North Lakes (Business & Professional Women) will show women how to do just that.

On Saturday, 13 November, BPW North Lakes is hosting the Women's Empowerment Workshop designed to help empower women to step up, lead and make an economic difference in Moreton Bay.

BPW North Lakes president Sara Gault said the full day workshop aimed to empower women to amplify their confidence and work through challenges around their organisation, and build strong relationships for guidance and support.

"At BPW we have the ability to support, guide, educate and grow the women and their economic development in this community," Ms Gault said.

"There are a lot of opportunities for women to be leading in this region as the growth predicted for this area is going to be astronomical in the next 10 years.

"We are supporting women in our community by ensuring they have the skills and knowledge to be part of that growth."

The workshop focuses on five key sessions – Boundaries, Resilience, Speaking Up, Personal Style and Personal Brand – that will give attendees a balanced approach on how to be empowered.

MC and facilitator Sally Foley-Lewis said some of the topics the speakers are bringing to the workshop are phenomenally important because for women who don't feel as though they can hold a boundary or they struggle to ask or struggle to take, they can learn how to amplify their confidence.

"The workshop is not about being more male but learning how to amplify your own personal leadership and your own personal strength," Ms Foley-Lewis said.

"Women will learn how to build confidence, find their voice and set strong boundaries. There will also be great networking opportunities and lots of fun."

The workshop is sponsored by the Moreton Bay Regional Council. For further information and to book your ticket visit BPW North Lakes Facebook page.

Do You Know a Local Superstar?

Redcliffe has always been home to many talented locals, as well as people with really interesting stories to share. At Redcliffe Guide, we take a lot of pride in showing off what we have on offer every month.

We are on the hunt for the Peninsula's superstars in the making – possibly your humble neighbour who would never brag about their talents. Musicians, artists, prizewinners or people with interesting skills, we want to know who you are.

Tell us who you think we should write about so we can get them in the Redcliffe Guide and showcase what makes them so amazing. Big, small, young or old – if you or someone you know has a tale to tell, get in touch.

We want to highlight all the amazing people in the area who are hiding away from view, so we can acknowledge their skills, stories, and achievements.

As a local community, it is important that we all band together, share the positives far and wide, and recognise our next-door neighbours. We love hearing about our local triumphs – they deserve to be celebrated.

Low and Slow, Ready to Go

Imagine the sound of kindling crackling in an offset smoker, and the aroma of charcoal and Australian hardwoods smouldering as they imbue their deep, complex flavours into quality cuts of beef brisket, ribs, pork and chicken.

The mouth waters at the mere thought. So think how you'll react when you step into Margate's newest eatery, Slow Smoke Bistro.

Apart from being a sensory and stomach overload for the carnivorous connoisseurs of the Peninsula, Slow Smoke Bistro is also a dream fulfilled for owner and chef Wade Morris.

After owning and operating two different franchises over the past 20 years, Wade said he was excited to be designing, operating and cooking in a business of his own creation.

"I have had a passion for cooking since I was a teenager, and after a few trips to the USA

I found a great appreciation for this style of cooking," he said.

"So I started having a go at home, and after about 10 years of trying different methods I have become pretty darn good at slow smoking."

The menu supports Wade's slow-cooking claims.

All of the American favourites get their time in the sun, with a slice of the deep south's favourite cuisine flowing through every morsel.

"We have great burgers with house-made patties, slow smoked brisket, ribs, pork and chicken - all smoked in house in our offset smoker," he said.

"We will be adding specials in the coming weeks. Our BBQ and hot sauces are made by us as well. We also offer top quality steaks, fish, wings, salads, and more.

"Our meat is slow cooked for up to 12 hours using Australian ironbark and red gum, giving it a flavour and tenderness that is unique to us. There is something for everyone on the menu, even if you don't like smoked food. We are now licensed as well."

Wade Morris

Wade said the feedback had been five-star, with locals quickly becoming regulars. Speaking of locals, Slow Smoke Bistro is also a proud employer of Redcliffe residents.

"All our staff are locals and we are bringing something a little different to the community," Wade said.

"Our staff are all very friendly, we offer a casual atmosphere, and the food is all made with the best local ingredients using local suppliers.

"We are on Facebook so please follow our page for exciting news on upcoming specials and events."

Try the ribs, thank us later.

New Police Hub Boosts Commuter Safety

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

A new police hub at Kippa-Ring station aims to improve safety and security for commuters by reducing local crime.

The purpose-built facility opened last month to support the Queensland Police Service's railway squad and community-based officers in targeting crime and anti-social behaviour.

Drew Brock, Queensland Rail senior manager security and emergency preparedness, said customers valued seeing a highly visible police presence on the network.

"This initiative is designed to deliver exactly that," Drew said. "The safety of our customers is our highest priority, but Queensland Rail also recognises the role we play in contributing to the broader safety of communities. This new facility will support regional police to deploy more effectively across the Moreton district.

"It's pleasing to see that both Police Railway Squad and regional police are using the facility to benefit both commuters and the local community."

Queensland Rail invested $30,000 to create the new police hub, which is part of an existing train crew depot.

Member for Redcliffe Yvette D'ath said the hub would make the area safer, and help commuters feel more comfortable using the rail network.

"Equipped with workplaces for two police officers, the hub provides direct access to Queensland Rail's station CCTV network of more than 12,000 cameras, and has facilities to process alleged offenders," she said.

Sign Up to Play at Tigers Open Day

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

The Tigers are set for another great season of Aussie Rules footy and are inviting registrations at this month's open day.

Redcliffe Tigers AFC president Gayle Wetzel Fitzgerald said the club welcomed the community to the annual open day on Saturday, 27 November.

"This is an opportunity for returning and new members to see what the club has planned for 2022, meet the coaches and volunteers and enjoy the community of the Redcliffe Tigers," she said.

Registrations will be open for boys and girls junior teams (aged 6 to 11), boys and girls youth teams (ages 12 to 17), Colts (under 18), senior women and men, and masters.

Due to growing numbers in 2021, the Tigers will be fielding even more teams this season.

"As a result of the strong growth in the female programs and the senior women qualifying for finals, the AFLQ have granted the Tigers a second senior women's team license for the 2022 season," Gayle said.

"The focus for this season is the continued growth of AFL on the Peninsula while ensuring players of all ages and skill levels have the opportunity to play footy at the highest level possible, while maintaining the family and community environment the Redcliffe Tigers are proud of."

PODCAST OF THE MONTH

Start With This

STORY NICK ALLFORD

A podcast that gives you homework? It's actually way more fun than it sounds. If you're a writer (aspiring or otherwise) but don't know where or how to begin, Start With This will give you the creative kick up the arse you may need.

Writers Jeffrey Cranor and Joseph Fink work on the premise that creative people have more projects in their heads than they have time left on this planet to create. So which one to choose, and where do you start?

Each week they share their creative processes, tips, tricks and experiences on uncorking your creative juices.

At the end of every episode the listener is assigned two pieces of homework: something to consume, and something to create. Working from an article, website or a YouTube video, you'll be asked to start that 'someday I'll do this' project, with guidance on how to bring it to life.

You're not just writing into the ether, either. You can share your work on the Start With This forum. Chat with like-minded writers, ask for feedback and maybe even find future collaborators ... or not. You won't get detention if you don't hand in your homework.

For more information, visit www.nightvalepresents.com/startwiththis

A WORD FROM OUR REPRESENTATIVES

CR SANDRA RUCK

We have many talented artists who live locally and whose works are not only amazing but so diverse, and an exhibition is always one of the highlights in my diary. Recently, I attended 15 Artists, Fresh Eyes, and the Master Pastellist Exhibition for the Pastel Society of Australia. Be sure to visit our wonderful galleries and museums – they certainly won't disappoint.

Moreton Bay Regional Council is hosting Pets in Public Places events across our region, which offer free microchipping for registered dogs and tips about our pet's unwanted behaviours, advice on pet fencing/enclosures, and exercising your pet. Freebies for our furry friends are also on offer.

Redcliffe PCYC is undergoing some upgrades with a grant from the Federal Government, which include a new office space, new entrance, and upgraded amenities.

We are looking forward to hearing the community's feedback from State Government's Scarborough Harbour Masterplan consultation, which will expand on Scarborough's marine facilities, creating the potential for Moreton Bay to become the epicentre of Australia's $74 billion marine industry and opportunities for tourism and maritime industries.

LUKE HOWARTH MP

I want to let you know about two live and interactive eSafety webinars for parents and carers you can access in November for knowledge, skills, and tools to help children navigate the online world safely and confidently.

eSafety is a priority of the Morrison Government with $125 million over the next four years dedicated to education and training.

Webinar 1: Guide to digital technologies and mental health For those with young 10 – 18 years and covers: what do to about accidental

YVETTE D'ATH MP

November is always an important time of year for school leavers. The upcoming graduation and awards ceremonies highlight the dedication and hard-earned results of students and their teachers and families. For school leavers, it can also be a daunting time as they begin to prepare for the next big step. Many will be transitioning into the workforce or going on to further study.

I encourage school leavers to consider the Queensland Government's free TAFE for under 25s program. Visit tafeqld.edu.au for more information.

Additionally, Redcliffe and wider Moreton Bay have a lot to celebrate in the successful NRL bid of the Redcliffe Dolphins!

In February 1947, the Dolphins was founded, and in 1959 the club received full-district club status. Fast forward 74 years and the Dolphins are now ready to take their next step and join the national Rugby League.

Horses Helping Humans

STORY ALEASHA BLISS

Horses Helping Humans is an equine communications program in the Moreton Bay region that helps people gain confidence, understand body language and overcome personality barriers by utilising horses mirroring human behaviours.

Certified facilitator and Herd Together president Katrina Nichol said Horses Helping Humans showcases the positive impact horses can have on humans' day-to-day communication skills.

With the challenges of lockdowns and modern technology, many children were struggling to understand body language and how to communicate effectively with peers, family members and future employers, she said.

"The program is designed to be effective with families, domestic violence victims, at-risk youth and those with mental health struggles, and aims to build confidence and self-esteem, develop emotional awareness, control and self-discipline," Katrina said.

"It also aims to apply anger management and impulse control while developing healthy relationship skills and respect for others and self."

Horses Helping Humans founder Sue Spence said the program is trademarked and licensed and has been providing outcome-based courses in Australia and New Zealand for over 12 years.

"Our reputation for students re-engaging back into school or study and helping disadvantaged youth and domestic violence families learn new communication skills to move forward in life has been recognised with awards, university partnerships and community support." Sue said.

Katrina said the program introduced students to techniques to help them focus and turn anger or anxiety into calm assertiveness, and offered practical ways to apply effective communication - skills which were easily transferable to interpersonal (human to human) communication.

"The program uses the basic principles of professional natural horsemanship groundwork - no riding - which is about building rapport, using gentle communication and respectful methods that are grounded in encouraging connection and natural cooperation," Katrina said.

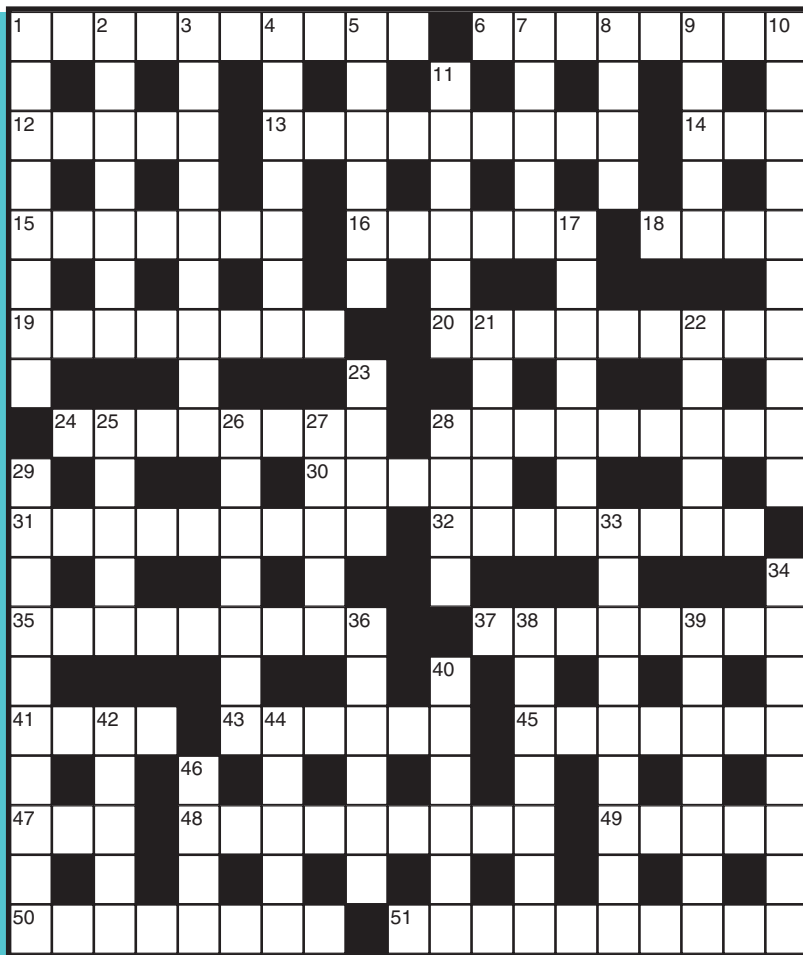

"We also run the program in a presentation format for corporate businesses and services so teams can enhance their performance and teamwork skills.

"Sue has a great motto for the program, 'There should never be any intimidation or fear in communication. There should only be respect and trust'."

The charity is looking for volunteers and sponsors to help more people access the program.

A FISHING COMPETITION TO REEL IN ALL ANGLERS

It's been said that good things come to those who bait, especially for those throwing a line in to win a local fishing tournament.

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

Redcliffe Peninsula Game and Sportfish Club (RPGSC) will host their annual sportfish competition from Friday, 12 November to Sunday, 14 November at the Moreton Bay Boat Club.

RPGSC Chairman Noel Day said the competition was designed to cater for all types of fishing.

"It's a friendly competition," Noel said. "Everybody loves to go out and have a fish and it adds a bit to your fishing if you've got a challenge and can go and participate in something like this.

"The competition is open to the public, but if they are not a member of ANSA or QGFA, which are the two fishing bodies in Queensland, we can give them a temporary membership into ANSA for the weekend."

Anglers keen to compete can head along to a meet and greet at Moreton Bay Boat Club on Friday night.

"We've got a briefing to explain the rules and go through the categories," Noel said. "We hand out some cards, which have the tournament code for the weekend, so they have to take a photo of their fish on a brag mat, which is a measuring mat, with their card in it."

Entrants can take part in one or more of three different challenges.

"For the beach (land-based) challenge, people can fish off the beach, jetty, wharf, or bank," Noel said. "It's a combined total length of their five best fish.

"The bay challenge is for bays, lakes, estuaries, canals and rivers within South East Queensland, so they can fish at Somerset Dam, Pine River, Caboolture, Brisbane River or Moreton Bay. Once again, that's the combined length of their five best fish.

"The bluewater (offshore) challenge is outside a line from Combyora Point on Moreton Island to Skirmish Point on Bribie Island, which is outside of Moreton."

A barbecue will be held at the boat club from 3:30pm on Sunday, followed by a presentation where prizes will be awarded for the longest overall fish, as well as a $200 mystery prize.

Entry costs are $25 for senior members of ANSA or QGFA. Accompanying junior members are free. Non-members can pay $10 for temporary membership. For more information go to rpgsc.com.au

Aussie Made Fashion on Show

Shannon Longhorn, Roz Fredenberg, and Rosemarie Rogers at the Portofino fashion event at Redcliffe Senior Citizens Hall.

Redcliffe fashionistas are in for a treat with the Fashion Parade by Portofino Fashions being held at the CWA Hall on 13 November.

Portofino Fashions was established 40 years ago, and is owned by Roz Fridenberg, who also designs the garments of the locally-made clothing label.

Roz said she had owned several Queensland stores over the years and is now running the business through her fashion parades throughout Brisbane, paired with fundraising events.

"Ladies, especially the more mature aged group, are fairly passionate about wanting to buy Australian-made where they can," Roz said. "The beauty of buying from us is that the pricing is really good because you're basically buying from the manufacturer which makes it more economical."

Roz said the event was a great way for women who were nervous going to shopping centres due to COVID to have an intimate afternoon with friends, support a great cause and shop for some Australian designer wear.

She loves being involved and also donates a percentage of the clothing sales to the fundraiser.

The QCWA raises funds for farmers each year by picking a primary product to support. This year it is sheep.

Although QCWA's focus is farmers, they also donate knitted and hand-sewn goods to victims of domestic violence and trauma, and make birthing kits for women in Papua New Guinea, alongside donating generous bursaries for women studying in rural areas.

Pine Rivers QCWA secretary Anna Mead said the fashion parade would include an afternoon tea, along with raffles and lucky door prizes.

"Fundraising is always for a good cause," Anna said. "The fashion parade is a nice way to socialise and have a chat. We often get members from other branches come along as well, it's a nice afternoon out having fun with friends."

Anna said she was looking forward to seeing some new faces at this year's event, and that the Redcliffe CWA Hall was a great venue, with ample parking and indoor space.

Maintenance Works to Redcliffe Jetty

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

Recent visitors to the popular Redcliffe Jetty will have noticed maintenance crews at work. Moreton Bay Regional Council is currently undertaking works on the jetty, including the rotunda and visitor information centre.

Division 6 Councillor Karl Winchester said the works would fix issues found during a routine inspection.

"The works will ensure that the jetty can remain open and safe," Karl said.

"Works include fixing and, in some instances, replacing parts of the jetty balustrading, posts and light poles, roof struts and battens. The information centre's awning at the jetty entrance will also be replaced."

Although the jetty will remain open to the public while maintenance is underway, some sections will be barricaded.

A temporary side access path is being constructed to allow the public to enter and access the jetty areas safely during these works," Karl said.

Karl said the Redcliffe Jetty was not only a Peninsula icon, but a vital asset for the community and tourism operators.

"It's important that we maintain this asset and keep it in tip-top shape for visitors, businesses and the residents of the Moreton Bay Region."

The works started last month and are expected to be completed by the end of this month.

Brissie Big Air

STORY PATRICIA HIGGINS

Brissie Big Air (BBA) is back and ready to soar to new heights. The popular kiteboarding event is set to take place at Queens Beach North in November, with a $500 top prize up for grabs.

Organiser Grant Hore said kiteboarding was a high energy, colourful, and exciting sport that allowed riders of all levels to push themselves to jump as high as they could or go as fast as they wanted.

He described BBA as “community, friendship, exercise and, of course, the adrenaline that comes with being pulled by a kite.”

“It’s much like surfing in the ’60s where everyone is keen to help each other,” he said.

The event is a visual feast for spectators, with the beach transformed into a riot of colourful kites and characters.

“The action is only a stone’s throw away so the spectators get a great view,” Grant said.

BBA is run by a small group of dedicated kitesurfers, and event t-shirts will be available for purchase on the day, with profits assisting budding kiteboarders.

Entry is limited to 30 competitors, so those who are interested should keep track on the new BBA website www.brissiebigair.com, as well as follow on social media.

You'll Be Tickled Pink by the Convoy for Kids

STORY ALEASHA BLISS

With the annual Brisbane Convoy for Kids in November, Redcliffe will become a sea of pink as trucks line the streets to raise funds for Hummingbird House.

This year is set to see a record number of big rigs parading through town, with over 700 expected to participate in the parade. There will also be 30 to 40 Army vehicles joining the cause.

There are many amazing vantage points around town to watch the two-hour convoy make its way to the Redcliffe Showgrounds – but the real fun begins at 9am, when you can get up close and personal with the truckies and vehicles as they roll in to be judged in many categories at the Truck Show.

Brisbane Convoy for Kids treasurer Leanne Prince said the truck drivers raised most of the money for the children's hospice, as they bid and paid to have the lead spot in the convoy.

"The convoy is expected to start coming into Redcliffe about a quarter to nine," Leanne said. "So make sure you're ready so that you don't miss out on the lead trucks. Be prepared for lots of loud noises, blowing horns and waving truck drivers – bring your smiles – the drivers love it."

The showgrounds will be a carnival of fun once the trucks have rolled in, and there will be many great live entertainment acts including James Blundell, Mattlach and Redcliffe's own Team Utopia.

The family event will also have a free petting zoo, rides, market stalls, food trucks and live auctions to contribute to the fundraising. At 7pm, the event will come to a close with a spectacular fireworks display.

"The Convoy for Kids is everybody's way of thanking the men and women of the transport industry," Leanne said. "They quite often are away for weeks at a time and leave their families at home to make sure that your kids have clothes on their back and food in their belly.

"Even on convoy day they are putting the needs of other people first – the people of Hummingbird House. This is one of the few days of the year that everybody can come along and be part of their life."

Dancing in the Street

We haven't seen a lot of dancing in the street lately, but if you live in Redcliffe, you might see some surprise flash mobs popping up around the place, perhaps where you least expect them.

Mirrer Mirrer founder Lee-Anne Bird has always loved music and the joy dance brings to people – especially when it's a surprise – and decided to form her own business to create flash mobs.

Lee-Anne has a strong passion for bringing dance to the community, and reached out to Toni Marie Dance Company at Clontarf to see if they would be interested in participating in her first Redcliffe flash mob.

"When I spoke to Toni, she jumped through the phone and said she would love to be involved," Lee-Anne said. "She put together a dance and kept it secret from all the parents, I then contacted the Redcliffe Markets and they also jumped at the idea of us doing the flash mob there."

Lee-Anne said the support from the markets was incredible – they set up the music in several locations with the children scattered throughout the foreshore, before wowing market goers with a surprise choreographed performance in the street.

Toni Marie Dance Company owner Toni Evans started her dance studio six years ago, after 40 years as a dancer. She created a studio with low costs so more people can afford to dance.

"Participating in the flash mob was an incredible experience for myself and the kids," Toni said. "Especially this year as we haven't had many opportunities to perform due to COVID – so it was great to get the kids out there again."

Dance Mum Jo Hoy's 8-year-old daughter Gwen was one of the performers in the first Redcliffe flash mob. Jo said the crowd loved it and her daughter enjoyed the experience of the spontaneous dance.

Lee-Anne has big plans for Mirrer Mirrer and hinted at more flash mobs around the Peninsula over the next few months – so keep your eyes peeled, as you never know where or when they may pop up.

Mirrer Mirrer is currently looking for male and female dancers of all ages to participate in future events.

FISH OF THE MONTH

Dugong

Sometimes known as sea cows, dugongs inhabit the northern coastal waters of Australia, with Moreton Bay their most southern range on the east coast.

Dugongs are not small animals – they can grow to about four metres long, and can weigh over 250kg.

A plaque on Woody Point Jetty says:

"Historical records state that a herd of dugong was sighted in 1891, 8 kilometres long and 300 metres wide off Woody Point."

As seagrass is their staple diet, we are lucky to see them on this side of the bay at all at the moment, especially since the 2011 floods killed off large quantities of the seagrass growing around the Redcliffe Peninsula, Bramble Bay and Deception Bay.

Now, ten years later, the seagrass is recovering so we may see more. I do still see the occasional dugong around Redcliffe and Clontarf.

On the eastern side of Moreton Bay, however, it's a different story. Along the Moreton Island and Stradbroke Island sand banks and weed beds, they are quite plentiful. We see them regularly on our fishing and day trips over to the islands.

Fun Fact - the dugong is more closely related to elephants than to whales or dolphins.

Peter Hansler is a local fish enthusiast. He can be contacted on phansler@hotmail.com. Or visit rainbowrunner.ausfish.com.au.

FROM THE PULPIT

LOVE

The Lord Jesus calls on us to LOVE ONE ANOTHER [John 15:12].

Love is the answer to the world's woes.
If we all loved God and our neighbors there would be no more wars; no more hate crimes; no need for a police force; no armies; and there would be peace throughout the world.

The Lord JESUS PROMISED that He would return to earth to set up
His KINGDOM where every one will be Christians and LOVE will reign supreme [Zac.14:9; Isaiah.11:9; Acts.1:11].

forgiveness by dying on the cross to cleanse us from our sins, next He will come again as

PENINSULA PIMPERNEL

STORY RICHARD LANCASTER

On 13 September, 1824, Lieutenant Henry Miller and his party of 14 soldiers, their families and a motley group of 29 convicts landed at Redcliffe to establish what was to become the first European settlement in Queensland.

Initially pitching tents as temporary accommodation, various parties would have been dispatched to find water and to assess suitable sites for the buildings to house both the guards and the guarded, as well as clear the bush to establish locations to grow food for the settlement.

As their exploratory endeavours progressed, they would have encountered the Kabi Kabi and Ningy Ningy, part of the Undambi people, who had called the Peninsula home for thousands of years. They would also have encountered animals they had never seen before – kangaroos, wallabies, koalas, possums, wombats and a large variety of birds.

We will never know for certain what happened during those early days, as Miller's diary has been lost. However, it's possible that at Redcliffe and their more permanent settlement in what is now Brisbane, they came into contact with a mysterious native animal known by its indigenous name as the yarri – the Queensland tiger.

Sightings of the yarri have been rare. The earliest documented European encounter dates back to 1871, but of course indigenous traditions go back a lot further. Reports from the late 1800s into this century have come from all over Queensland. Ten News carried a story in 2017 of the Smith family of Shailer Park on Brisbane's southern outskirts, who said they had seen an animal answering the description of the tiger in the adjacent bush.

The animal is described as a dog-sized feline with stripes and a long tail, prominent front teeth and a savage temperament. It has also been likened to a large, striped marsupial cat.

The last known Tasmanian tiger, or thylacine, died in captivity in 1936. The 1965 book Furred Animals of Australia suggested the Queensland tiger was a variant of its cousin from Tasmania. Have you ever seen one?

RECIPES ON PAPER

www.recipesonpaper.com.au

The busy season is fast approaching so now is the perfect time to build your freezer stash of quick meals. This recipe is perfect for when you want to cook ahead with something that is versatile enough to be used multiple ways and that also gives you a hit of vegetables to counteract all of those mid-afternoon beers and BBQs. This tomato sauce freezes beautifully and can be used on chicken parmigiana, in a lasagne, cooked with meatballs, as a pizza sauce or the base of a mussel marinara.

Here I have served it as a simple pasta sauce with beautiful Pasta Maria spaghetti, which I picked up from The Deli in Redcliffe (Cominos Arcade). They boast such a wonderful range of boutique pantry items, perfect for when you are wanting to treat yourself to something a little special. I also couldn't resist buying a huge jar of Moroccan caperberries which go perfectly on the side. All the vegetables have been selected fresh from the Redcliffe Markets.

Spring Tomato Pasta

- 1 bottle of passata
- 1 medium onion
- 2-3 cloves of garlic
(more if you're a lover of garlic)
- 2 medium carrots
- 2 stalks of celery
- 1 large eggplant
- 1 red or green capsicum
- 2 medium zucchinis
- Water to cover

Chop onion and garlic and sauté in olive oil for 3-4 minutes.

Chop veggies and add to pot with the passata and stir.

Add water so the vegetables are submerged, season with salt and pepper and cover with a lid.

Cook on medium for 1 ½ hours.

If you are a vegetable lover, cook for less time to keep them al dente but if you are trying to hide them from little ones (or yourself), cut them as small as you like and cook for the full amount of time.

Note: you can put in any vegetables you want. Depending on what I have in my fridge, sometimes I will add mushrooms, spinach, or frozen peas.

Myrtle Troyahn

Myrtle Troyahn – A Woman of Many Words

STORY HELLEN WHITE

When local lady of letters Myrtle Troyahn's grandfather, Thomas Sanger, arrived from the UK in the late 1800s, it soon became obvious that the golden opportunities promoted at home were not as they were portrayed. He moved to Queensland where he worked as a surveyor's assistant in the early settlement in Humpybong.

His daughter Ethel married Joseph Burgess and had 13 children. Myrtle was the eleventh. She was close to her grandfather, and in his declining years would read the newspapers to him - but he insisted she only read happy news.

Despite her many chores on the family farm, Myrtle completed her education and was offered a scholarship to a teachers' college. Ill health meant she had to withdraw and forget her dream of becoming a teacher.

As she recuperated, she began to write – newspaper articles, short stories, household hints. Her articles began to appear in the New Idea, Bulletin, Women's Weekly and other magazines. She was paid well for them, but preserved her anonymity by writing under the pseudonym MAT.

Myrtle met her husband Ernest Troyahn when his parents visited the family farm and he came to drive them home. They married on 11 November 1939, and honeymooned in Redcliffe. They had three children. During the war years, they ran the family orchard in Applethorpe, with the help of two Italian prisoners of war, due to Ernest's ongoing health issues.

In 1946, due to Ernest's ill health, they moved to Clontarf and bought a mobile library. Myrtle's prolific writing supplemented the family income – not a hardship for someone who loved reading and writing so much.

Eventually selling the library when it became too hard for Ernest to carry the heavy suitcases of books, they built a general store on the corner of Dan Street and Elizabeth Avenue. After Ernest's death in 1954, Myrtle tried to continue the business, but sold it a year later, buying a library in Fortitude Valley. She worked there for many years, taking public transport six days a week.

In 1963, Myrtle became manager/librarian at the Redcliffe Municipal library, run in those days by civic-minded locals. She knew all the borrowers by their membership numbers, and worked there until her retirement at the age of 65.

With Myrtle's passing in 2002, the Peninsula lost a unique individual whose love of reading and writing touched many people.

Support for Families at Local Health Hub

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY PHOTO BRUCE REDMAN

Redcliffe families with young children have been finding support and guidance at a free local health and wellbeing hub.

The hub, at Hercules Road State School in Kippa-Ring, is an initiative of eight Peninsula primary schools.

Health and wellbeing hub project officer Gayle Wetzel Fitzgerald said the hub offered specialist support services to improve educational outcomes for students.

"It started as a way to identify health and developmental needs before young kids start school," Gayle said. "So you are starting that process of identifying any issues around things like speech a bit earlier, to make the journey a bit easier once they get to school."

The hub is open from 8.30am to 12pm every Wednesday and welcomes all young families on the Peninsula as drop-ins or by appointment.

"Some people don't like going to a doctor's surgery, but being in a familiar environment they find it more relaxing to come to the hub and have a chat, and we can lead them on the correct pathway," Gayle said.

"The hub has been running with the health nurses for the last 12 months and now we have got the health nurse once a fortnight, the early intervention clinic, and the GP who will be seeing people purely for the developmental side of things."

A health nurse is on-site to support families with children aged between birth and six years old who want to discuss concerns with breastfeeding, nutrition, normal growth and development, sleep problems, and hard to settle babies.

Families with children under the age of eight can access the early intervention clinic to receive guidance in relation to the parent-child relationship, understanding and responding to challenging behaviour, adjusting to parenthood and postnatal depression, coping with anxiety and stress, and parenting confidence.

Gayle said she hoped the hub would receive ongoing funding so it could continue to provide services to the Redcliffe community.

"By the end of the year the funding might run out, which is unfortunate because we have gotten it this far and we would love to see it continue, as it is an invaluable service," she said.

FESTIVAL FUN BACK AT ZILLMERE

STORY BROOKE JACOBSON

There's no need to travel to get a taste of different cultures this November, with the Zillmere Multicultural Festival making a comeback.

Festival production manager Deb Suckling said the community was abuzz with excitement.

"This festival has been running for 19 years, so people really missed it last year," she said.

"We were a little worried with the last lockdown, but Brisbane City Council has really been driving this and saying 'yes, let's go ahead'."

The festival has a COVID-safe plan, with sanitiser stations, social distancing and spread-out attractions.

It will showcase an array of cultures from Chile to Indonesia to China, and will also feature a large First Nations presence.

"Here in Zillmere about five per cent of the population is First Nations, which is huge, and we have advisory groups running that part of our program, which is fantastic," Deb said.

Festival-goers can expect beautiful food and craft stalls, together with displays, workshops, crafts, demonstrations and performances.

The popular Youth Stage will also return.

"Our young people are feeling the effects of COVID, there's very few places and opportunities for them to perform at the moment," Deb said.

"The children's area will be heavily focused on the arts. We feel that young people learning culture through art is really important."

And then there's the food.

"Every food stall has to have a $5 meal option, so that firstly people can try lots of different food from around the world, and secondly so that it's affordable for everyone. We want people to be able to come and stay for the whole day," Deb said.

Organised by the Jabiru Community Youth and Children's Services Association, the festival celebrates the diversity and richness the multicultural community of Zillmere brings to Brisbane.

Jabiru CEO Brett Roland said he was thrilled the festival could go ahead this year.

"Zillmere Festival is such a big part of our community identity – where people can come and enjoy the sights, sounds and tastes of our truly diverse and multicultural community," he said.

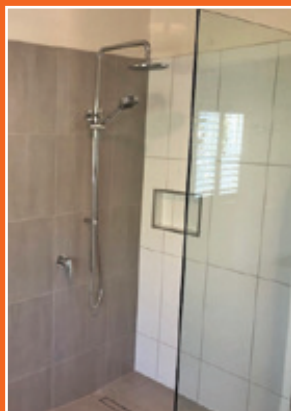

For more information, see the festival's Facebook page or email events@jabiru.org.au

All roofs age over time. After around 15 years, tile roofs deteriorate to the point where a restoration should be considered. At this age, colour starts to fade, ridge capping becomes brittle, lichen and mould can grow, and tiles become harder to clean. The appearance of your home suffers and your roof is more likely to develop leaks.

Richard Gabriel from Mr Highlights Roofing has over 20 years experience in the roofing trade. He uses only premium quality products for his restorations, and offers a full 12 years warranty on all workmanship and materials.
