A Note FROM THE EDITOR

With 2021 already a month behind us, I wanted to wish everyone a belated welcome to 2022.

With this, the first edition of the Guide for the year, I wanted to say a big hello as I take over the role of Editor for the Sandgate & Redcliffe Guides. Coming from an administration background, I am also an avid reader and dabble in a bit of creative writing myself, so I very much feel like I have found my creative home. I am very excited to be embarking on this new adventure with you all.

But when there is a new hello, there is always a sad goodbye. The Sandgate & Redcliffe Guides are an institution in their respective local communities, delivering interesting local stories and up to date information on the events in the area. For more than 10 years there has been a dedicated husband and wife team behind each edition. Dominic and Elise Alberth started the Guides when Dom realised a desire to find out more about what was happening in his community.

He quickly realised there was a need in the market for this information and the first Sandgate Guide was born, and it was a mere A4 page of paper. Over the years, with Dom's desire to showcase his beloved community and with the support of that community behind him, this one page information sheet became the professional monthly magazines that you all know and love today.

Dom has made the difficult decision to turn his hand to new ventures and I am dedicated to continuing the professional monthly publications in Dom's tradition. I am looking forward to seeing you all out and about in the community!

MORETON BAY EXPO

BIGGEST EVER MORETON BAY EXPO

STORY ALYSSA MACKAY

Outdoor enthusiasts will find everything they need for their next adventure holiday at the Moreton Bay Expo and this year promises to be the largest one yet.

An extensive range of caravans, camper trailers and boating, fishing and outdoor gear will be on display when the major shopping event returns to the Redcliffe Showgrounds from Friday, 18 February to Sunday, 20 February.

Australian Events director Bob Carroll said the annual event was a unique showcase of thousands of products to get people outdoors.

"From new cars, to 4x4s and every conceivable option for off-road motoring, we also have over 50 major companies with the very latest in camper trailers, caravans, and all the nifty bits and pieces to go with them," Bob said.

"Over 170 exhibitors and thousands of products make this unique event the first on the annual must-do calendar."

This year the event precinct has been extended to meet demand and exhibiting companies have expanded their displays.

Featured exhibitors include caravan and camper trailer manufacturer, Prime Campers Australia, personal watercraft dealership Brisbane Sea-Doo and Can-Am, 4x4 accessories megastore Opposite Lock, caravan dealership Caravan HQ, and many more to keep expo-goers busy during the three-day event.

Once again the expo will feature free daily entertainment. Ron 'Kingbrown' Wilson will be back to present Kingbrown Camp Oven Kitchen at three daily shows, where he will demonstrate how to make simple but delicious meals like lamb shanks and damper using camp ovens.

Owner and operator of 4WD Adventures and Training Australia, Michael Boyle, will also appear daily to share his love of the great outdoors with off-road demonstrations.

"The idea is to run expo participants through the basics of four-wheel driving on some man made obstacles," Michael said.

"We tend to find most people don't even know the basic things so it gives them a bit of an insight. They are shown techniques to recover from thick sand. They also learn what we call entry angle, ramp-over angle and exit angle, getting wheels off the ground, traction control, and electronic stability control and how that helps you when you're off-road."

Bob said he expected millions of dollars in sales would be transacted over the three days of the event and millions more in the following months.

The expo has attracted more than 40,000 patrons over the last two years.

Entry tickets are $15 for a single day and $18 for three days for adults, and $12 for a single day and $15 for three days for seniors. Children under 16 are free. For more event information and to get your tickets go to bayexpo.com.au

SUPERTANK A FISH-EYE VIEW

There's plenty of entertainment to lure the crowd at this year's Moreton Bay Expo with the return of a visually amazing fishing show.

The Berkley Supertank Fishing Show will appear several times daily during the three-day expo and the entertaining and educational experience is a must-see for keen anglers.

Supertank operator and seasoned angler Michael 'Cookie' Cooke will demonstrate lure and bait fishing techniques from on top of the enormous tank.

"The tank is 12 metres long and 3.8 metres high and it holds 14 thousand litres of water," Cookie said. "It is the biggest mobile fish tank in the southern hemisphere."

The show offers something for everyone, from beginners to the more experienced angler. Expo-goers will learn catch and release techniques and how to preserve their catch for the dinner table, as well as seeing first-hand how the fish respond to different lures. Kids will also enjoy watching the fish swim around inside the impressive tank.

"The show is for the whole family," Cookie said.

"Being a lure show and the tank having clear Perspex sides, the angler gets to see how the lures work and the action in the water.

"The fish we use are trained barramundi. In most shows they will chase and bite the lures as in a real life situation. As with other years I have some of the newest and best lures to demonstrate to the audience. We don't use any hooks so as not to hurt the fish."

Cookie has more than 60 years fishing experience and has been presenting the Berkley Supertank Fishing Show for over 18 years. He said the tank had been at almost every major show or event in Australia including the Moreton Bay Expo.

"We've been at the Sydney Royal Easter Show and every major boat show including the Sydney Boat Show and Sanctuary Cove Boat Show, and every major field day, caravan and camping show, and hundreds of agricultural shows throughout Australia," he said.

"With two tanks we were doing up to 70 events a year before COVID."

Demonstrations go from 15 to 20 minutes with a short break in between.

Crooning Tribute to Bublé

STORY ALEASHA BLISS

Michael Bublé is one of the world's most recognisable voices. Emotion oozes from his lips as he croons his jazz-inspired songs from a past era that was introduced to him by his grandfather.

Rydian Lewis discovered his love of Bublé after hearing the song Everything on the radio, and transformed his life of hairdressing and gardening into a career of crooning Bublé's biggest hits with his trusty band The Residuals

– the longest running Bublé tribute show in Australia.

He will be bringing his show to Redcliffe Entertainment Centre on 01 March.

Rhydian said the Peninsula held a very special place in his heart.

"Jeff from the Redcliffe Entertainment Centre was the first person that ever booked me to play a show in the whole of Australia," he said. "It's one of my favourite venues and I really like Redcliffe and its history.

"I kind of followed in the Bee Gees' footsteps as they lived in Manchester, before moving here, and I did the same thing."

Rhydian said he worked with some of the best musicians in Australia and all have performed with some of the finest artists around the country. They also have a Spotify profile where users can listen to some of the band's originals and covers of Bublé and other jazz stars.

"I really think that Michael brings something magical," Rhydian said. "It's retaining the old ways of performing and the old music from the old American Songbook and jazz. He's obviously the forefront performer in this genre and I am lucky that I can get up on stage and continue that legacy.

"I really enjoy singing the very emotional songs, the ones that are really special to Michael. My two favourites would be Home and Lost. There's a lot of history behind those songs and they're quite integral to the whole show."

Rhydian said he didn't impersonate Bublé but took the audience on a journey through his life and what motivated his songs while singing them true to the style of the jazz star.

Tickets to The Best of Bublé Tribute Show are $25. To book, visit www.redcliffeentertainmentcentre.com.au and search Best of Bublé.

STORY RICHARD LANCASTER

Trapped within the confines of my home due to COVID-19 exposure, and with nothing better to do, I decided to sort through a variety of books that had similarly lain captive in boxes in my garage for many years.

As I did so, the title of a slim volume caught my eye - Women and Work on the Redcliffe Peninsula. It turned out to be the result of a community project sponsored by the Redcliffe City Council in 1997, produced by Lesley Jenkins and 12 volunteer researchers.

They had documented the lives of 31 Redcliffe women covering activities including pioneering, mothering, domesticity, war effort, volunteering and business. Their efforts proved both illuminating and interesting.

On 7 December 1866, Mary Jull Ham became the first woman to purchase land on the Redcliffe Peninsula. It was a 37-acre block on what is now the seaward side of Clontarf's Maine Road. Married to Thomas Ham, who engraved postage stamps for colonial Queensland, they later established a 73-acre sugarcane plantation at Clontarf Point.

In the 1940's, Heather Bradford started work in a clothing factory on Maine Road, Clontarf. Owned by the Agnew family, it produced christening gowns and children's clothing. At age 14, she worked a 44-hour week!

For English-born 40-year-old Betty Palmer, Redcliffe proved to be a culture shock. Arriving here as a 'Ten-Pound Pom', she was horrified to see Redcliffe children going to school wearing no shoes, "This must be a poor country!" she observed.

Erica Juster became a pharmacist at age 21. With a partner, Mary Grant, she opened a pharmacy at Scott's Point in 1953. Another followed in 1960. She became President of the Queensland Women's Pharmacists in 1967 and was still able to raise three children and serve on several local committees.

While Redcliffe's history has been well publicised, women's contributions, though bountiful, are less so. Perhaps it's time for a change!

Redcliffe Markets EVERY SUNDAY IN FEBRUARY

Set alongside the picturesque Redcliffe Peninsula, the Redcliffe Markets are an iconic seaside marketplace filled with fresh farm-direct produce and meats, artisan goods, trawler-direct seafood, fresh-baked bread, gourmet food and provisions, handmade wares, art 'n' craft and so much more. It is a hub dedicated to supporting and showcasing the best growers, makers, builders and bakers in Moreton Bay and surrounds.

Presentation from Redcliffe RSL

Redcliffe's Centenarian: Marion White and Her Fulfilling Life

It's not every day you hear of someone turning 100 years old, but our little suburb of Redcliffe has a story of its own.

Marion (Meg) Elizabeth White, born 17 January 1922 at Waverly in NSW, turned 100 last month – with lots to celebrate about her long and fulfilling life.

Long before her move to Redcliffe, Meg trained as an accountant and joined the Royal Australian Airforce doing clerical duties from 1939 to 1945.

Speaking with her eldest granddaughter, Lynette Young, she said Meg moved around before finding her forever home in Redcliffe in 1969.

“From her marriage [to RAAF flight engineer, Elvan Francis Leslie White] onwards, they lived on banana plantations in northern NSW and then moved to Toowoomba. They moved to Redcliffe in 1969 and lived in several places, but especially in Victoria Avenue, Redcliffe,” Lynette said.

Not only did Meg find her home in Redcliffe, but her family became an active part of the community.

“They owned the Sutton Street Ice Cream Parlour for several years, where she diligently worked to look after her family. She worked in a lot of services as a volunteer and helped lots of people on the Redcliffe Peninsula.”

Meg has lived by herself since the 80s and found herself living in Margate before transferring to the Azure Blue Nursing Home at 96 years old, where she has happily resided for the past four years.

Some of her favourite hobbies include crocheting, knitting, and dressmaking, and Lynette said she hasn't lost sight of these activities in her later years.

“She is an avid Scrabble player and is very aware of what is going on around her. She also loves having people visit her, gets actively involved in activities at the nursing home, and loves being taken out on the Peninsula to spend time with her great-grandchildren.”

For her birthday in January, Azure Blue held a party in her honour while friends, family, and residents celebrated with her.

To Meg's surprise, she was also commemorated with a golden-framed certificate from the Redcliffe RSL to honour her for being an inspirational member.

If I was Prime Minister (President) for a day, I would...

STORY BRAD FLYNN

When I first learned that 80 per cent of businesses failed within the first five years, I felt sick. Not only because at the time I was in my first five years, but also because I knew how hard business owners worked and what they gave up by taking huge risks – it didn't seem right.

The flow on effects from these failure rates are deeply unsettling, such as bankruptcies and family breakdowns, and the personal toll is disturbing. After my involvement with thousands of businesses since 2010, I believe I know why they fail, and have some ways to improve these nauseating figures.

So, if I was Prime Minister or President of the world for a day, here is the number one law I would put in place; you will not be issued a license to have a business (but you must have it to trade), unless you have a base level of understanding of what the financials in business are and how to use them to run a better business.

I believe the number one reason businesses fail is due to the lack of understanding of numbers and financials. The tragic thing is that what you need to really know is not hard. The benefit of understanding the basics of your financials is that most business owners will make more money, either through improved confidence and/or making better decisions.

So, in theory, what do you need to get this license? Know how to read a profit and loss (income) statement, a business scoresheet, and what it is telling you about how you are playing the game of business; Know how to read a balance sheet, a business snapshot of what you owe and what you own, and what it is telling you; and; Know how to read a cash summary statement, where cash has come from and where it has gone.

I felt so strongly about this that I created a free Small Business Financials course. For 30 minutes a day for seven days, this course will simplify what you need to understand so you can avoid becoming one of the 80 per cent who don't make it to their fifth anniversary.

Visit www.findyourcash.net/sbfrg and register to get your license.

New Redcliffe Production A REVOLUTIONARY ACT

STORY PATRICIA HIGGINS

Famed musical Les Misérables will arrive at the Redcliffe Entertainment Centre this February with lighting, sound, and costumes described as “out of this world.”

The production, which depicts the timeless tale of a former 19th century French convict who spends a lifetime seeking redemption, is sure to strike a chord with local audiences.

According to producing duo Lynch & Paterson, the story of protagonist Jean Valjean and the inextricable fate of his compatriots “reveals the power of compassion and the quiet evil of indifference to human pain.”

“We think the story is so reflective of our current situation. This musical has been going for over 35 years all over the world in different circumstances but now, more than ever, Les Misérables is a story of human courage and survival and what we can do for each other.”

Les Misérables will feature talented performers from all over Queensland, plus a 20-piece orchestra with the Cadenza Chamber Players. The bold and bombastic storyline, sets and costumes offer the pièce de résistance.

“A highly exciting element of the show is the big barricade that takes place in Act 2,” North Lakes co-producer Lucas D. Lynch said.

At the helm of the production is director Cienda McNamara who, according to Mr Lynch, is shaping the show magnificently.

“We are so incredibly proud of our cast. They are stellar performers who are so vital for telling this richly layered story. They are a tight-knit group and are just as determined to have this production happen as we are,” Mr Lynch said.

Having just completed a sold-out season of Brisbane-based show Jesus Christ Superstar, Lynch and Paterson are thrilled about this new venture into the Redcliffe arts community.

“It’s just an extraordinary show and we love Redcliffe so much. It’s where Samantha (Lynch & Paterson co-producer) and I first met and wanted to produce shows together, so it has a nice full circle about it”, Mr Lynch said.

MEL TERARE

INTERVIEW BY LINDA READ PHOTO BRUCE REDMAN

"I live in Clontarf. I've lived in the area for six years, but I'm from Central Queensland, west of Rockhampton.

"I've got eight kids (aged from four-year-old twins to 30). I'm a single mum. I'm hoping when it's time for me to move on to the Dreamtime, I won't be alone.

"I used to paint before life got busy. Just for myself and my family. It's for healing, really. It's good for my mental health. Recently I took it back up. There's a need for it now – our culture is more recognised, more celebrated.

"I'm Baradah-Gabalburra – my Nanna's Baradah and my Grandfather is Gabalburra. For me to live down here I had to follow protocol and had to search out a traditional owner and just let them know that I'm here and what I'm doing. That's just cultural protocol. My kids all know that too.

"I work as an Indigenous health worker. I've been with Queensland Health for 11 years. I'm also studying nursing, and I want to specialise in aged care.

"We have totems, and my totem is the eagle. When we go on road trips (back to Country), the closer I get to home we see eagles. Because my mum passed away I know that's her guiding me, and that's a sign from our ancestors that they're still around us.

"I'm very blessed – I think it stems from my grandmother and grandfather. They were exempt from the (Aborigines Protection) Act, which means they weren't sent away, and they were able to embrace culture, and able to raise their kids on traditional homeland. I know that not a lot of our people are able to do that, so I feel very blessed.

"(I'm involved in) the Bramble Bay Runners and Walkers [RAW]. We meet at Sandgate Parkrun at Arthur Davis Park three times a week. We're a pretty strong group. It's not just for Indigenous people, it's all-inclusive, so everybody is welcome to join us, and we love that. That's our contribution to reconciliation.

"And I really believe in reconciliation, because we're all one community, and that's what I love about the group. We're all walking this journey together. That's what my mum taught me. We all walk together on the same planet, the same Country."

WHAT'S HOT AROUND TOWN

Australian
Buddy Holly
Show

STORY NADIA CHAPMAN

Get ready to kickstart 2022 with high-energy entertainment that only the Peninsula can provide.

And what better way to bring in the new year by taking a trip down memory lane with the Australian Buddy Holly Show at Bramble Bay Bowls Club on Saturday, 05 February.

Operations Manager Natalie Joy said the show is an exciting tribute to one of the pioneers of rock 'n' roll.

"Leading star Kris Knight not only sounds like Buddy but also bears a striking resemblance to the late star," Natalie said.

Backed by the four-piece band, the Crickets, Kris will take the audience through the years, playing hits like Rave On, That'll Be The Day, and Oh Boy.

"[The band] not only provide great music but also supply the fantastic harmonies that the Crickets were famous for. This stage show is a high energy tribute to a legend.

The Australian Buddy Holly Show will commence from 7pm and costs $10 entry on the night.

Let's go back in time and celebrate the glorious 60s and 70s along the waterfront.

The monthly 'Night at the Disco' party is back in full swing at Suttons Beach Pavilion on Friday, 25 February.

The Pavilion welcomes all to come along dressed in their best 60s and 70s gear and dance the night away to iconic tunes.

The party takes place on the Bathers Bar rooftop so you can take in the stunning views of the Peninsula.

You can book for $15 pp or pay $20 at the door. All tickets include one welcome beverage.

WEEK-long performances with some of the Peninsula's youngest local talent is coming in early February.

If you're looking for some entertainment for the whole family to enjoy, head down to the Redcliffe Musical Theatre to watch the rendition of 'Into the Woods', from 10 to 20 February.

Based on the enchanting Tony award-winning book, the story follows a baker and his wife who wish to have a child. When they find out they cannot have a child due to a Witch's curse, the two set off on an adventure to break the curse.

Bookings are essential and start at $35 pp. For more information www.redcliffemusicaltheatre.com/whats-on.html

Redcliffe Business Owner Wins Fight to Free Aboriginal Flag

Redcliffe resident Michael Connolly is celebrating a win after his work with Free the Flag, a campaign to free the Aboriginal Flag from the restrictions of copyright.

On 25 January, the Australian Government announced a $20m deal securing the copyright license from Luritja artist and flag designer Harold Thomas.

Michael, who uses the artist name Munda-gutta Kulliwari, is a Muruwari and Kullilli man. He owns Dreamtime Kullilli Art in Scarborough with his wife and family.

Michael joined with Gunditjmara woman, Laura Thompson, co-founder and CEO of Clothing the Gaps in Victoria, to create the Free the Flag campaign.

"It went from there to another level when they started on the AFL," Michael said. "Nova Peris, being an Olympian, jumped on it and she rang me, so her and I and Laura linked together and flew to Canberra in 2019.

"We spent three days trying to have meetings with the Liberal National Party and the Australian Labor Party and we had two meetings with the Minister for Indigenous Australians, Ken Wyatt."

The Free the Flag campaign gained momentum in 2020 and led to a Senate Inquiry as well as more than 165,000 signatures in an online petition.

Michael said he didn't know a decision had been made by the government until Nova contacted him late the night before.

Copyright has now been transferred to the Commonwealth, meaning the Aboriginal Flag will follow the same protocols as the Australian National Flag.

"I feel over the moon," Michael said. "It's the best feeling that our people have now got our flag back and can do whatever we want to do with it."

Sally Thomson

Sally lived on the Strathbogie Ranges in North East Victoria, where she developed an appreciation for the amazing environment & how it changed with the seasons.

She started her art journey with soft pastels, creating paintings of pets, reflecting their personality & later discovered impressionist paintings.

Sally studies her subjects as though she's never seen them before. "Any artist will tell you that art is a journey of discovery...All those colours and shapes, all those different tones & the joy of working them out, then stepping back & seeing them come to life on a canvas".

FISH OF THE MONTH

Snorkeling Woody Point

At first glance you could be mistaken to think, "What a beautiful spot snorkelling on our Great Barrier Reef!" but this picture is taken at Scotts Point in the 'Green (no fishing) Zone' on the Redcliffe Peninsula not far off Suttons Beach.

You could easily forget where you are when snorkelling here as there is so much to see. Sea life is abundant amongst these rocky reefs with soft and hard corals, tubeworms, crabs, starfish, wobbegong sharks and even seahorses on the weed beds! This piece of paradise is even worth a low tide walk around.

The diversity of fish species is amazing. You could spot snapper, tuskfish, squid, cod, butterflyfish, wrasse and various baitfish just to name a few. Unfortunately the weather and tides play a big part in water clarity here with the best times for visibility being the middle of winter, which is great if you have a wetsuit. Sometimes after smaller tides and little wind, the water is calm enough in the warmer months for the visibility to be good.

If the conditions are right it's a great shallow shore dive or snorkelling spot. I know some people will ask about sharks so local advice is to not go into the water at sunrise or dusk, and don't swim in dirty water or when baitfish are abundant.

JETTY LOUNGE

Rini Fritiani

COME LOUNGE AT THE JETTY

As a Redcliffe local I'm always excited to see more business come into our beautiful Peninsula and cannot think of a better way to spend a morning than having a strong coffee overlooking the jetty and gorgeous Moreton Bay.

To kick start 2022, a new business opened its doors to locals and visitors to the area.

Co-Owner of the Jetty Lounge, Rini Fritiani said she and partner, Craig Whitehead knew it would be a challenge opening a new business in the current economic climate, with hospitality being hit hard during the COVID-19 situation.

"After four years in Darwin, where I ran a fine-dining restaurant, Craig and I have spent two years dreaming of opening up our own restaurant."

" So we want to move away from the costly, fine-dining experience to hopefully create a more affordable and relaxed experience for our diners." Ms Fritiani said.

With a modern, affordable and classic cafe style menu, the Jetty Lounge is family friendly including both children's breakfast and lunch menus and even catering to take away meals.

Ms Fritiani said they hoped to open the sprawling rear patio up as a play area with a weekend kids' club with staff to supervise children while their parents enjoyed a social meal.

With the captivating outlook of the bay, Ms Fritiani went on to add she hoped Sunday sessions, local live music and plenty of dancing would also soon be on the cards.

"We have a fully licensed bar, and we can cater for groups and functions."

"My idea is for guests to feel like they can come out for a dinner date with great tunes, show some clever dance moves, and enjoy our tasty cocktails," she said.

The former coffee-club site is spacious, open plan with a nautical feel, and crisp white walls. It reminded me of being on a ship; the only thing missing was the swaying deck but nothing a fancy cocktail from the new bar couldn't fix!

"Our main goal is to make sure we get it right for the locals. We know it's really hard at the moment in this industry but we hope the people of Redcliffe will come down and support us," Ms Fritiani said.

SHUCK DON'T CHUCK, as Reef Restoration Project Gets Underway

Just as grit in an oyster creates a pearl, a local initiative is finding that a little elbow grease can turn environmental issues into regenerative solutions.

The Moreton Bay Marine Park (MBMP) oyster reef restoration project safely returns oyster shells collected by the community from commercial and other outlets to our local waterways.

Colin Scobie, Rotary vice president of Redcliffe Sunrise and Environmental Sustainability Rotary Action Group (ESRAG), said the process was making an important difference, especially given that 96 per cent of oyster reefs had disappeared.

"After a four to six month process to eradicate any bio adverse hazards, the used oyster shells are washed and placed into Robust Oyster Baskets and eventually placed in the MBMP to enhance the fish stock," Colin said.

"Not only are they diverted from landfill, but as the oysters grow they also clean the bay."

The project was built on the Pumicestone Passage oyster reef restoration project (via Dr Ben Diggles at the Ningi Waste transfer station), and now involves several other organisations including Moreton Bay Regional Council, OzFish, Healthy Land and Water, The Moreton Bay Foundation and regional universities.

The initiative's success is also due to the amazing qualities of oysters themselves, which are referred to as 'the kidneys of the waterways'.

"Each adult oyster can filter up to 180 litres of water per day and provides a habitat not only for fish, but also plankton and marine microorganisms," Colin said.

Research shows that for every hectare of oyster reefs, 2.5 tons of fish are generated every year, with a huge increase in diversity.

Colin encourages local residents to get involved by collecting shells and lending a hand in future restorative projects.

"This community is one of a number of custodians of the Moreton Bay region's marine environment. I am wanting to make it a better place for our children's children and invite you all to join me," he said.

A WORD FROM OUR REPRESENTATIVES

CR SANDRA RUCK

A big welcome back to everyone for a brand new year. I hope everyone had an enjoyable and safe break and I'm sure by now you are settling back into school, work routines and life in general.

Did you know that the Moreton Bay Regional Council offers a 'Healthy & Active Moreton' program which has a diverse range of free and low-cost activities to cater for all ages and abilities to help us stay active and healthy?

There is an exciting choice of fitness, recreation, sport and workshop activities for people of all ages - children, teenagers, families, adults and seniors. Examples of activities on offer include yoga, Pilates, online fitness classes, group fitness, traditional Chinese dance, folk dance, paddleboard lessons, windsurfing, hiking, bushwalking, nutrition workshops, gateball, croquet, darts, self-defence, bike education and road safety, tennis, fishing for beginners, archery, kayaking, dragon boating, outrigger canoeing and so much more. Why not search Healthy & Active Moreton on Council's website to find out what activities are on offer for this month?

It's never too late to learn something new!

YVETTE D'ATH MP

I would like to acknowledge the tremendous efforts of our local community, healthcare workers, businesses, schools, community organisations and households throughout the past year.

2022 has already had its challenges as we continue to manage COVID-19 while supporting the recovery of our community. I strongly encourage anybody who is not yet vaccinated to come forward now and get vaccinated. If you have taken a Rapid Antigen Test and tested positive, please register your result online with Queensland Health by visiting <https://qld.gov.au/rat-positive>

I look forward to continuing to work with our community over the coming year and I encourage everyone to continue to support local businesses.

For our students in 2022 I wish you all the best for the year ahead. I would like to take this opportunity to also thank our local teachers and school staff for their commitment to the education of our young people.

We have yet again started the year showing what we can do together and we will continue throughout 2022 to unite and recover from COVID-19. Thank You!!

LUKE HOWARTH MP

I have learned more about human nature in the last two or so years than I have in all my 49 years, and a lot hasn't been very nice lately.

The recent Novak Djokovic visa case revealed an ugly side to the debate happening in our society and showed we are a society breaking more and more into tribes.

Coming off the back of Australia Day, I think it is good for us to remember we are one tribe and that is Australian.

Being Australian is the story that holds us all together. Ask yourself, what does being Australian mean to me? Am I being the best Australian I can be? We can all do our part. I'd like to use this first Redcliffe Guide column for 2022 to repledge myself to the people of Petrie. I don't always get it right but I am invested in making our part of Australia better for all.

RECIPES ON PAPER

www.recipesonpaper.com.au

Nothing screams Australian summer like prawns and mangoes and while we aren't 'throwing another shrimp on the barbie', we are celebrating the incredible produce that we have available on the Redcliffe Peninsula.

This salad is fresh, treat-filled and will make you feel like you are sticking to your New Year's resolution to eat better. It's packed full of fresh herbs, plump, pink prawns, and sweet mango flesh. While you might be used to a vermicelli salad with BBQ pork and deep-fried spring rolls, this is the healthier, better-looking cousin.

If you haven't visited Morgan's Seafood yet, it is an absolute must! They have the most exquisite range of seafood from lobster to flathead, to hand picked crab meat and fresh oysters. It really is like walking into an underwater oasis (so you can see why I couldn't resist these gorgeous tiger prawns!). The mangoes and vegetables are all from the Redcliffe Markets. Kensington Pride mangoes are a favourite in this house!

Prawn Salad with Charred Mango, Vermicelli Noodle and a Zingy Sesame and Lime Dressing

INGREDIENTS

4-5 prawns per person (I have used medium tiger prawns)
1 mango
1 small cucumber
1 carrot
¼ small purple cabbage
½ red capsicum
1 lime
½ small red onion
mint
coriander

vermicelli noodles
chilli (optional)

SESAME & LIME DRESSING

3 tablespoons lime juice
1 shallot finely diced
2 tablespoons fish sauce
1 tablespoon sesame oil
1-2 cm knob fresh ginger
grated
2 stalks of coriander
finely diced

Follow the instructions on the packet to reconstitute the vermicelli noodles then put to one side.

Cut off both mango cheeks, leaving the skin intact. Fire up your BBQ and place your mango cheeks flesh side down making sure not to move them once you have laid them down (you don't want to end up with messy grill marks). Leave on for 3-4 minutes, or until you have achieved the desired charred marks.

Prepare your vegetables by washing and cutting them to your liking. I have plated the vegetables inspired by a Vietnamese salad, but you could toss them all in a salad bowl and it will still taste just as good.

For the dressing, combine all ingredients in a bowl (adjust to your taste) and stir to combine.

Combine all ingredients in a serving bowl and drizzle over dressing. Enjoy.

May contain allergens.

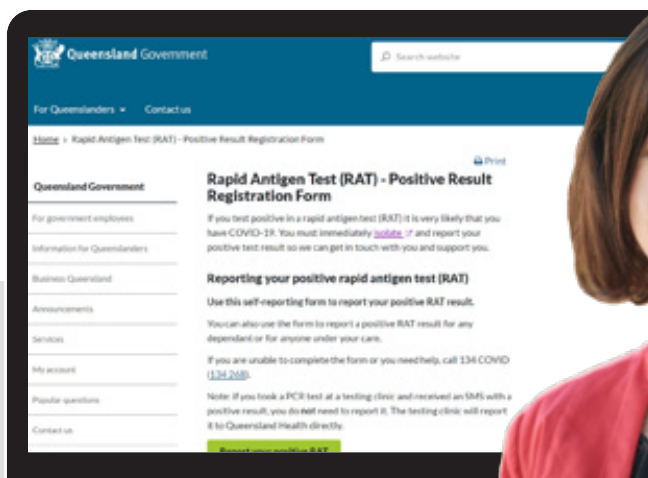

Report a Positive Rapid Antigen Test

If you are unable to complete the form online or you need help, call 134 COVID (134 268).

REPORT YOUR POSITIVE RAT

If you have a PCR test at a testing clinic and received an SMS with a positive result, you do not need to report it. The testing clinic will report it to Queensland Health directly.

Jeannie Bruni

During the height of the pandemic in 2020, Jeannie Bruni and her daughter Isabella relocated from Sydney to the Moreton Bay Peninsula.

Soon after, Jeannie decided to open Madame Waldorf on the Redcliffe foreshore, and realised she had found her niche in selling a great range of stylish yet affordable fashions and accessories.

Jeannie said one of the biggest rewards of her work was listening to people and learning what suits a particular shopper.

"Sometimes it's about finding something that might not look so good on the rack but looks amazing on," she said.

Suitable for a variety of age groups, Madame Waldorf stocks fashion-forward labels such as Naudic, Di Moda, Made in Italy, Indikah, Style State and Saints & Sinners, as well as stunning handbags, statement jewellery and more.

Jeannie has been able to realise her dream of creating a retail sanctuary in the peaceful coastal environment of Redcliffe.

"People are great, everyone's friendly and the surroundings are lovely," she said.

The boutique represents a homecoming, with Jeannie moving back to the region she had grown up in, to own and run a business close to her heart.

"The concept was based on my desire to do something with my daughter – not just as a business, but also as a reason to spend more quality time with family."

Before the big move, Jeannie was working in a demanding job in Sydney and her idea of creating a fashion boutique was still in its infancy.

"With the pandemic, everyone took a bit of a hit. My parents live on the Redcliffe Peninsula. It was evident that I just needed to be close to them."

As it transpired, Jeannie would be doing her bit to carry on the family tradition.

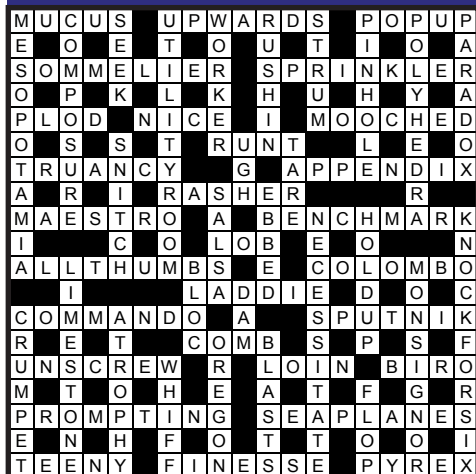

"My grandmother owned a series of boutiques in London, before calling Redcliffe home. She was also President of The Tuesday Club which was an organisation that hosted fashion parades to support disabilities in the local community," she said.

THE BIG ONE CROSSWORD ANSWER KEY

FROM THE PULPIT LOVE

The Lord Jesus calls on us to LOVE ONE ANOTHER [John 15:12]. Love is the answer to the world's woes. If we all loved God and our neighbors there would be no more wars; no more hate crimes; no need for a police force; no armies; and there would be peace throughout the world.

The Lord JESUS PROMISED that He would return to earth to set up His KINGDOM where every one will be Christians and LOVE will reign supreme [Zac. 14:9; Isaiah. 11:9; Acts. 1:11].

First He came to lay a foundation for our forgiveness by dying on the cross to cleanse us from our sins, next He will come again as KING OF KINGS and LORD OF LORDS [Rev. 19:16]

HISTORY REDCLIFFE

Be our guest ...

Redcliffe Hotel 1910

STORY PATTIE TANCRED

Redcliffe's first overseas visitors did not stay long. The penal settlement at Humpybong, established in 1824, was abandoned the following year because the site was thought to be unhealthy. Although, only 40 years later, the desirability of what we now call Redcliffe was becoming obvious to land speculators and settlers. Within a few short years it had become a destination for visitors from Brisbane seeking health-giving sea air and relaxation.

Travellers require accommodation, and hotels were among the earliest buildings to be erected. One of the first was O'Leary's, built in 1880. Mr O'Leary claimed it was built on the original Humpybong settlement. To support his claim, Mr O'Leary showed a correspondent of The Redcliffe Herald extensive relics of the 1824 stockade, some of which were incorporated into the new hotel's construction.

By the 1890s O'Leary's was under new management and had been renamed the Redcliffe Hotel. One visitor, in 1893, recorded "Everything was ... 'nice'. The cookery nice, the beds nice, the attendance and civility on a par with the rest." In 1902, a patron noted approvingly of the then licensee, Mr Thomas Moxley, "Tom is in great demand with the ladies as a teacher of swimming."

By the 1920s, there were six hotels and 28 boarding establishments and the Redcliffe Hotel, now trading as the Ambassadors Hotel, was offering its clients all modern conveniences, including "up-to-date lavatories, a hot water system and a septic tank system" together with "electric light throughout" and a parking station for 100 cars.

Another hotel with a long history was the Palace at Woody Point. Built in 1909, it replaced the Great Western, which burnt down in the early 1900s. The Palace, a "magnificent, palatial residence" and "a superb hostelry" offered 22 "lofty and spacious apartments" and "a lovely view of Bramble Bay" as well as a bathroom on every floor.

The heyday of the Palace occurred after 1927, when it was taken over by the Filmer family and underwent considerable renovation. Mavis Filmer, the Palace's proprietor in the 1950s, joined the ranks of notable Redcliffe publicans by providing an early performance venue for the Bee Gees, who performed there in 1959, each receiving a bottle of Coca Cola in recompense.

The glories of the great hostelries of the past may be gone but Redcliffe is still, as early advertisers proclaimed, the "queen of watering places" "where you can ... thrill with delight to be alive".

NOSTALGIC NANANGO

STORY JENN CARRINGTON

PHOTOS SUPPLIED BY NANANGO SHOW SOCIETY

For Queensland's fourth oldest town, the community of Nanango in the South Burnett region is far from sleepy, small, or quiet.

With a jam-packed year ahead of country and bush inspired events, Nanango is a bustling, vibrant and true-blue iconic representation of country Australia.

Nanango Heritage country market coordinator Henry Seears said Nanango attracted people from all over Queensland.

"My wife Jenny and I have been the managers of the markets for ten years, and we have people travel from as far as Gympie, the Sunshine Coast and Brisbane to come and buy and trade with our farmers."

"We have had up to 600 stalls in the past, but generally we get around 350-400 stalls every month and we are the largest country market that we know of in Queensland."

"After a successful market on New Year's day, the markets are shaping up to be even bigger and better in 2022," Henry said.

The markets started around 30 years ago and were very diverse and full of interesting artifacts and products.

"We have a lot of plants, fruit and veggies, old machinery and tools, women's clothing, olives, honey, artists, farm supplies, produce, animal feed and much more. We even have a hairdresser on site."

"Aside from all that, we also sell a lot of animals, from chickens, ducks, pigs and dogs," Henry said.

It takes a lot of hard work behind the scenes to ensure the markets run smoothly. With a small team of staff and volunteers, Henry was proud of the pristine showgrounds and the effort put in by everyone to make the markets run so smoothly.

Nanango is the second-largest town in the South Burnett and home to about 4,500 people. The farming community not only boasts the monthly markets, but several bush-inspired events throughout the year.

Coming up in 2022 The Nanango Show Society is hosting the annual CampDraft event in May, Heritage Music and Country Muster in September, and Rock and Roll/Classic Car festival weekend in October.

Henry said all of these shows and events supported the local community and economy for Nanango and they welcomed everyone to come experience a piece of Aussie country lifestyle.

For some weekend getaway inspiration, check out all the information on these amazing Nanango events.

International Women's Day High Tea

STORY JULIA LEWIS

Empowering women worldwide, the Zonta Club of Redcliffe is celebrating International Women's Day by hosting an elegant High Tea in support of Breast Cancer Research.

Held at Mon Komo Hotel on 6 March, the High Tea includes a spread of pastries and petit pies, as well as a glass of bubbles on arrival.

President of Zonta Redcliffe and the Chair of the Advocacy Committee, Marie Stewart said the High Tea is an event that celebrates women.

"As International Women's Day is an event celebrated annually by Zonta International and the United Nations as a day to celebrate women and their achievements, this is an important day in the Zonta calendar," Marie said.

"We are privileged to have the support of the Redcliffe Community as they know the Zonta Club of Redcliffe supports many organisations with their projects to help empower women and girls."

Throughout the afternoon attendees will enjoy guest speakers.

"The two special guests are our speakers - Amy McCart Reed from Brisbane Breast Bank and Professor Catherine Yule from USC Moreton who is head of the STEM Department," Marie said.

"This year the proceeds will go to the Brisbane Breast Bank for their ongoing research into Breast Cancer."

All roofs age over time. After around 15 years, tile roofs deteriorate to the point where a restoration should be considered. At this age, colour starts to fade, ridge capping becomes brittle, lichen and mould can grow, and tiles become harder to clean. The appearance of your home suffers and your roof is more likely to develop leaks.

Richard Gabriel from Mr Highlights Roofing has over 20 years experience in the roofing trade. He uses only premium quality products for his restorations, and offers a full 12 years warranty on all workmanship and materials.
